On the sweet summer wind its purpled wings . . . sail the unshadowed
shadowed main.

The future is open to all of us to do as we want with it and to shape or mold our life into something we feel is self-sufficient.

In webs of living gauze no more
unfurl; wrecked is the ship of pearl!

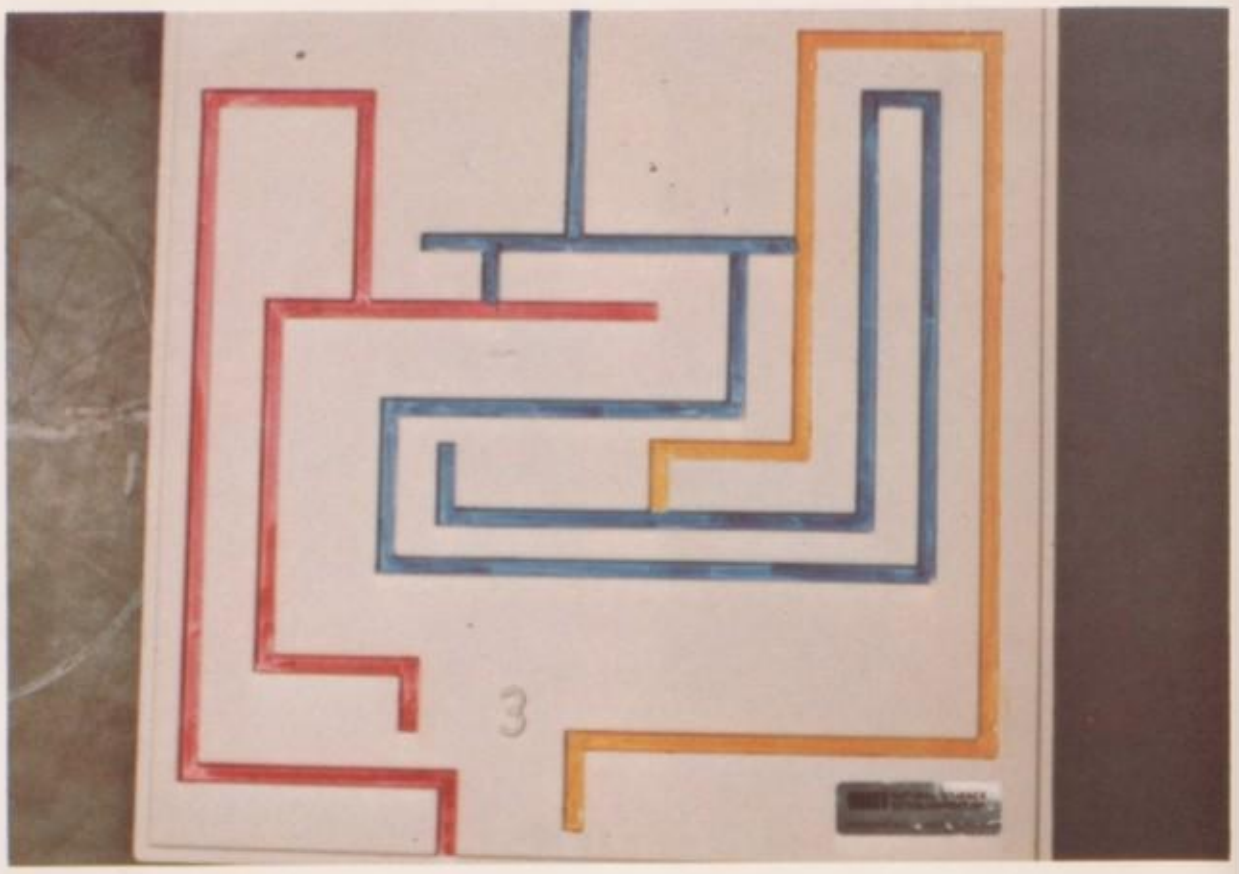
Our soul like a nautilus shell, is continually growing and changing through experiences. As we grow farther away from these experiences, they do not play as vital a role as they once did.



And every chambered cell,
where its dim dreaming life was wont to dwell.

Past rememberances haunt our minds. These memories, however, fade and blur with time. Each memory has its place.

Before thee lies revealed
its irised ceiling rent, in sunless crypt unsealed.

Even though the future seems dark, there is always something to look forward to. New experiences are always to be had.

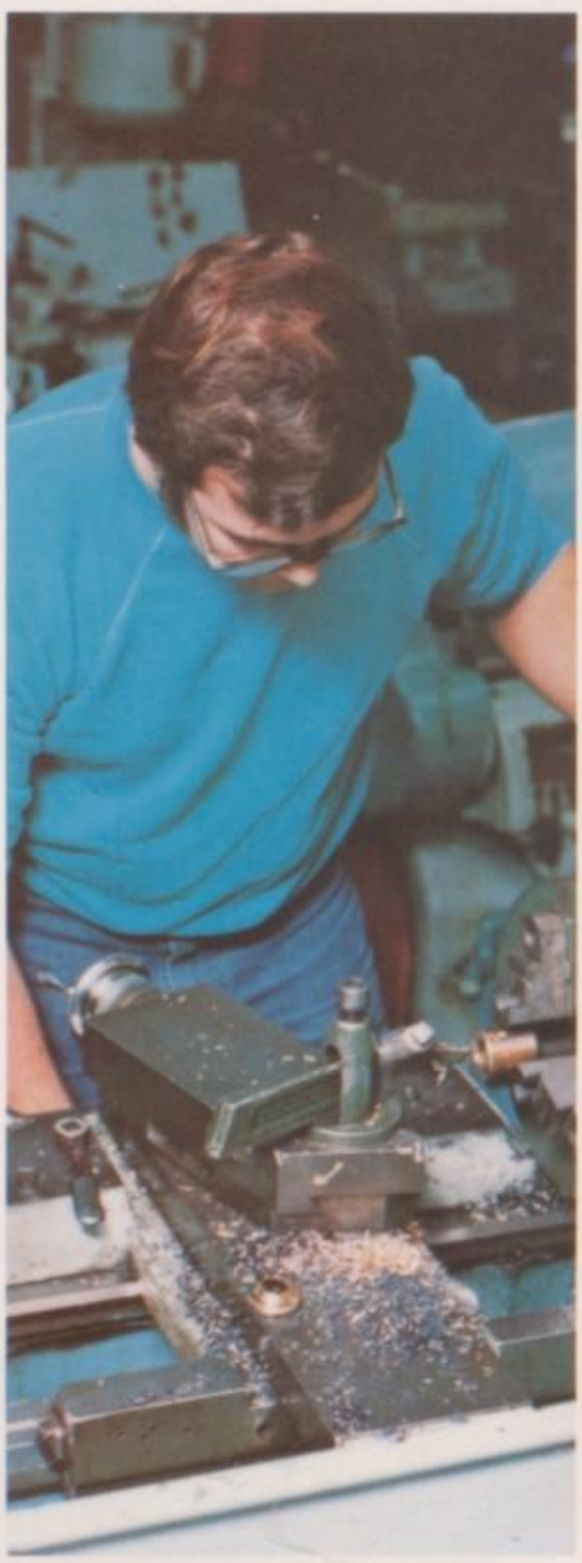
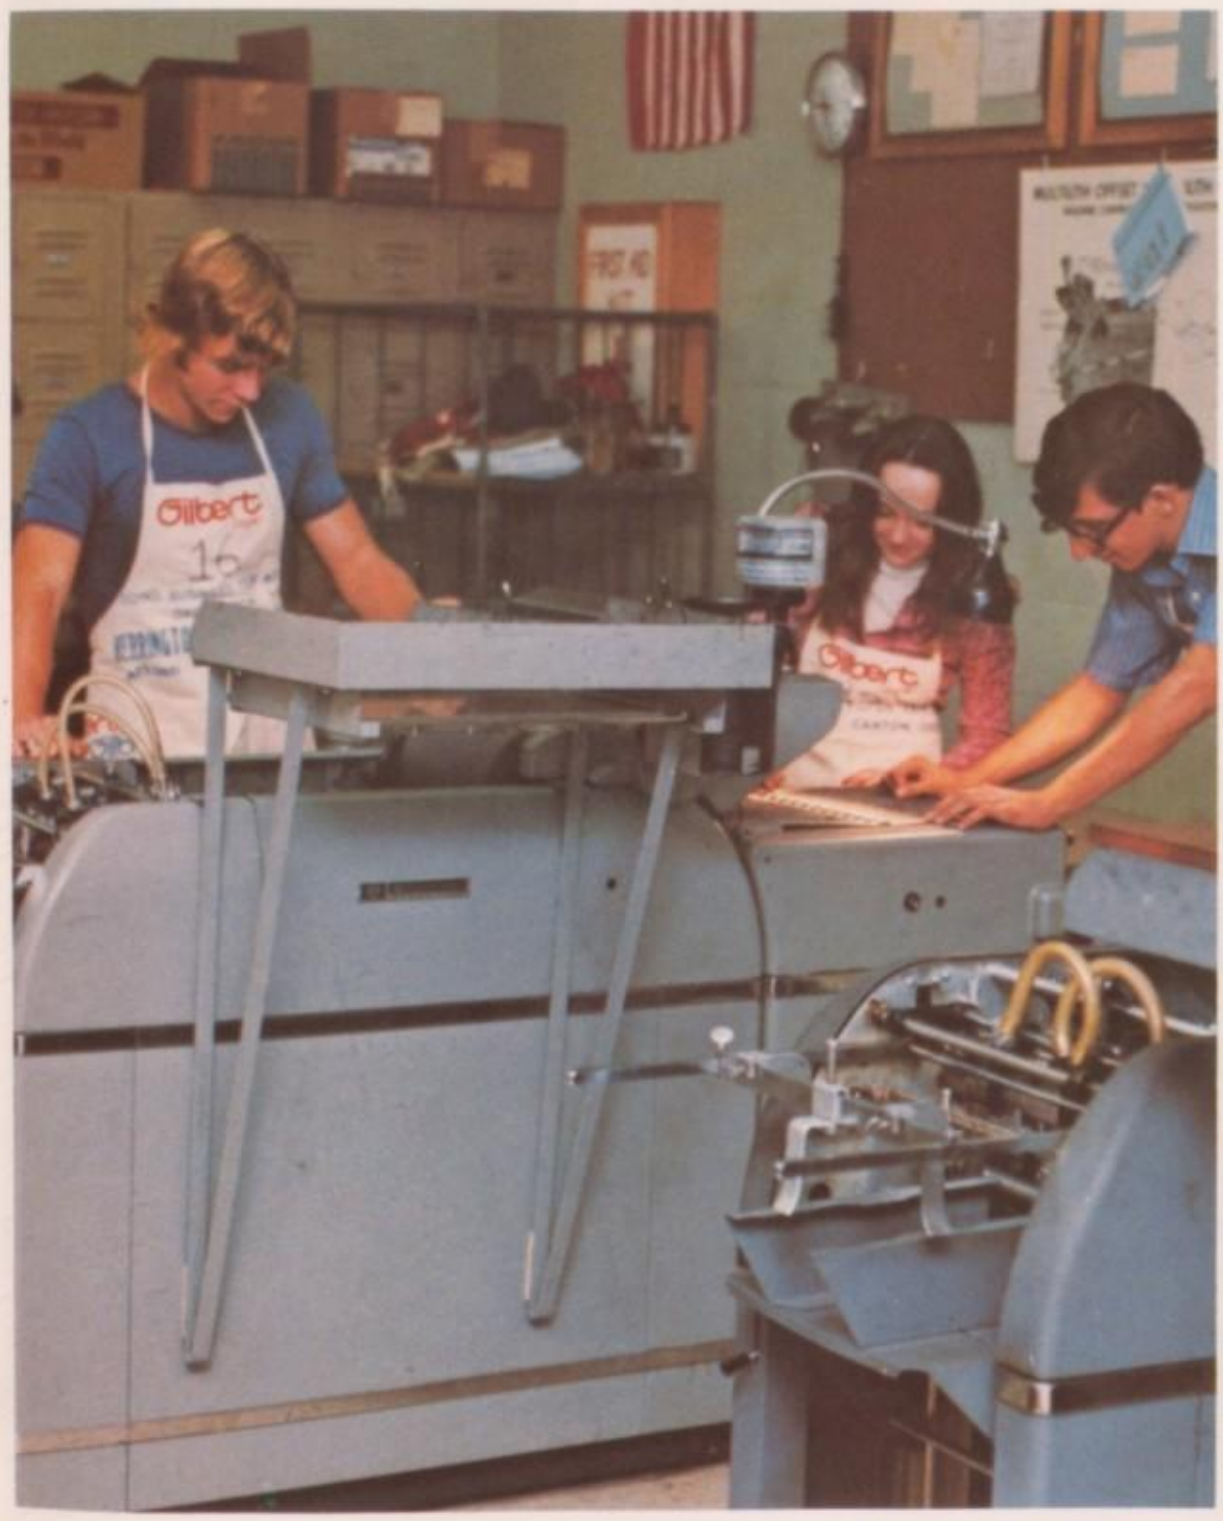
FROSTED



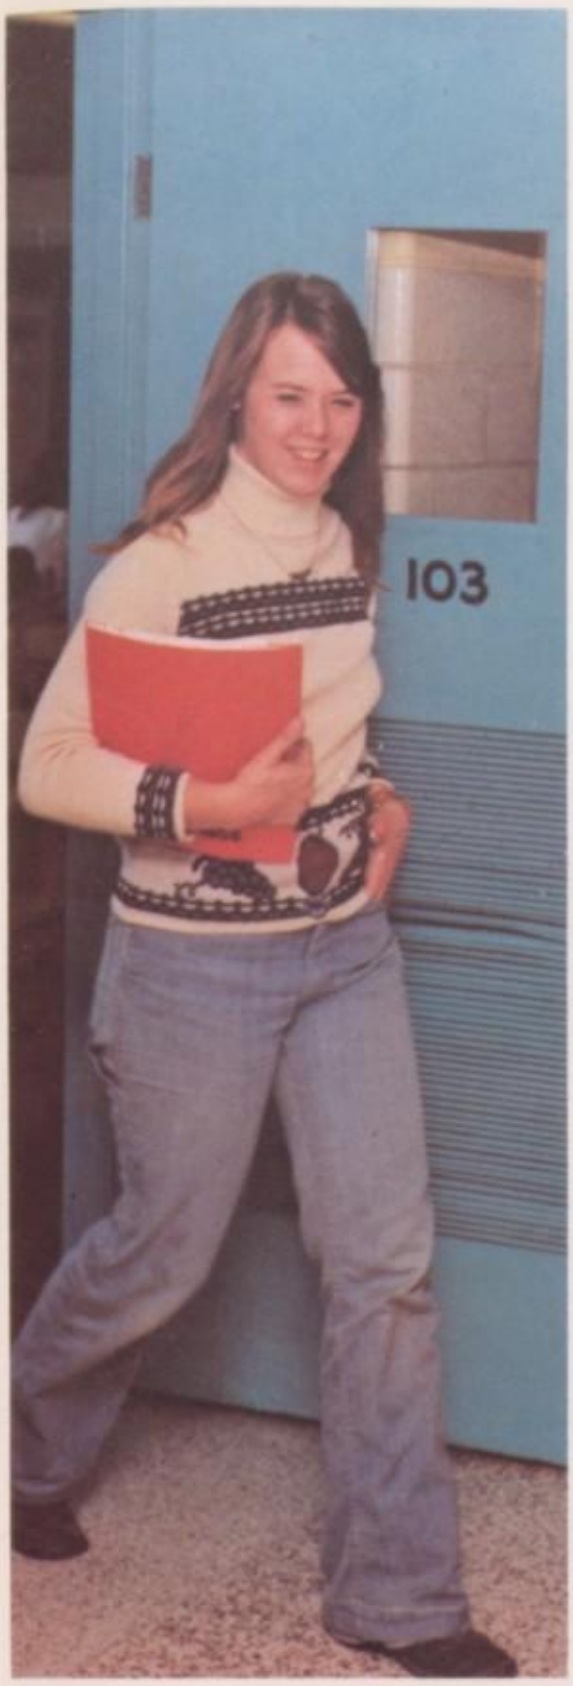


Year after year beheld the silent toil, that spread his lustrous coil.

We all have a specific thing to do once in awhile. All our labors seem insignificant at one time or another but gradually build into something worthwhile.

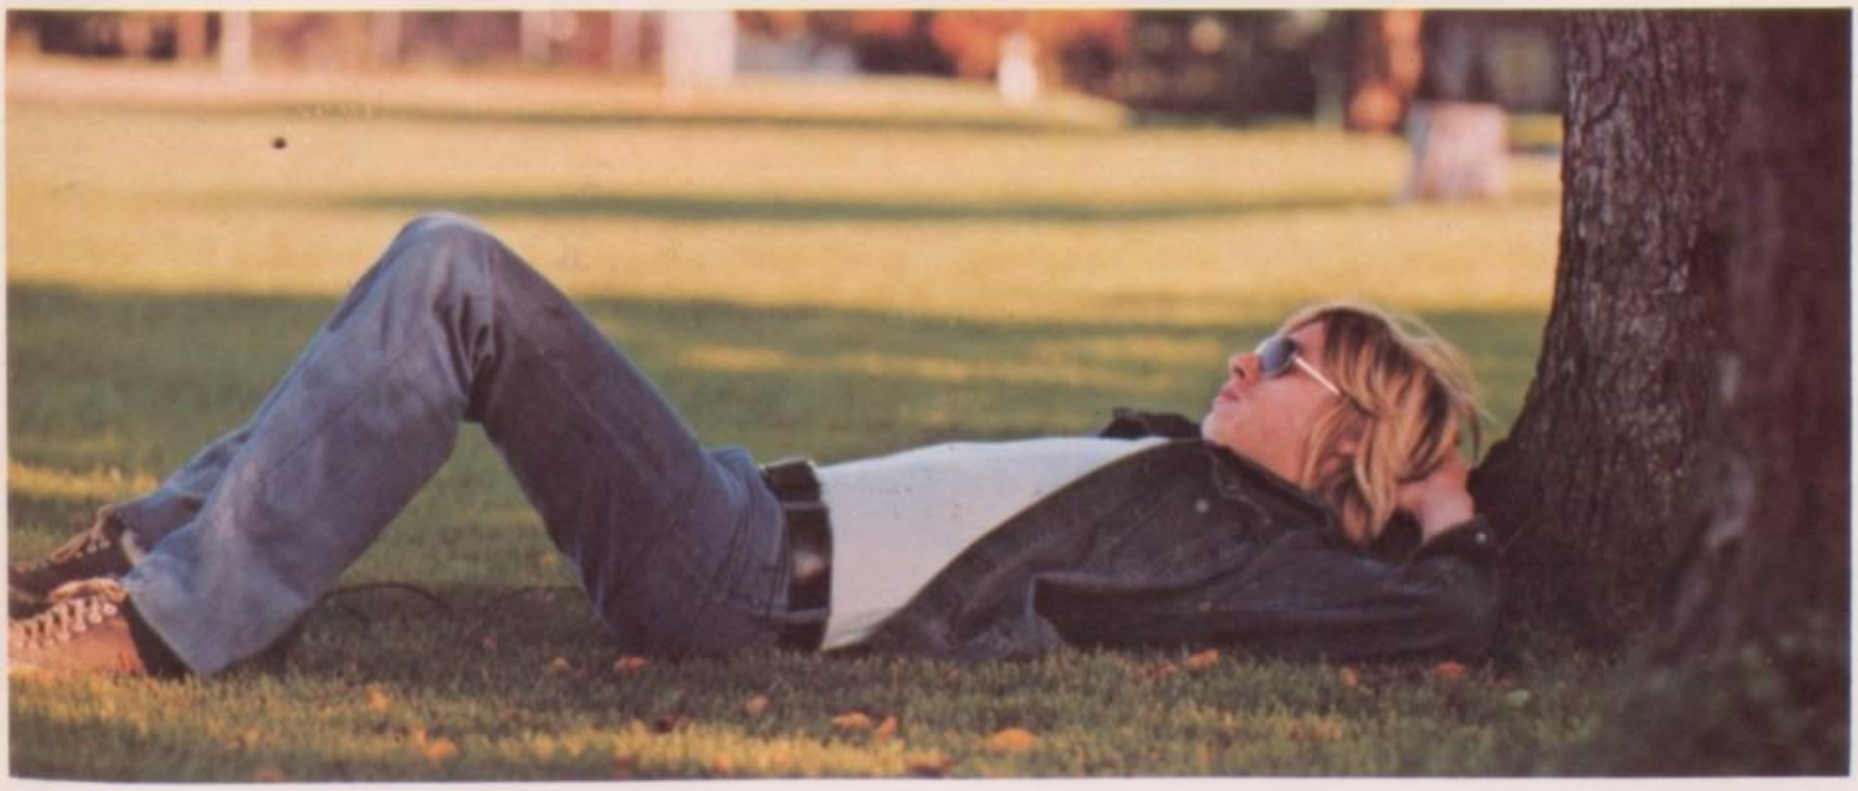
Still as the spiral grew, he left the past year's dwelling for the new.

Through these experiences, we meet new people and see different places. Each person and place contributes something to our growth.



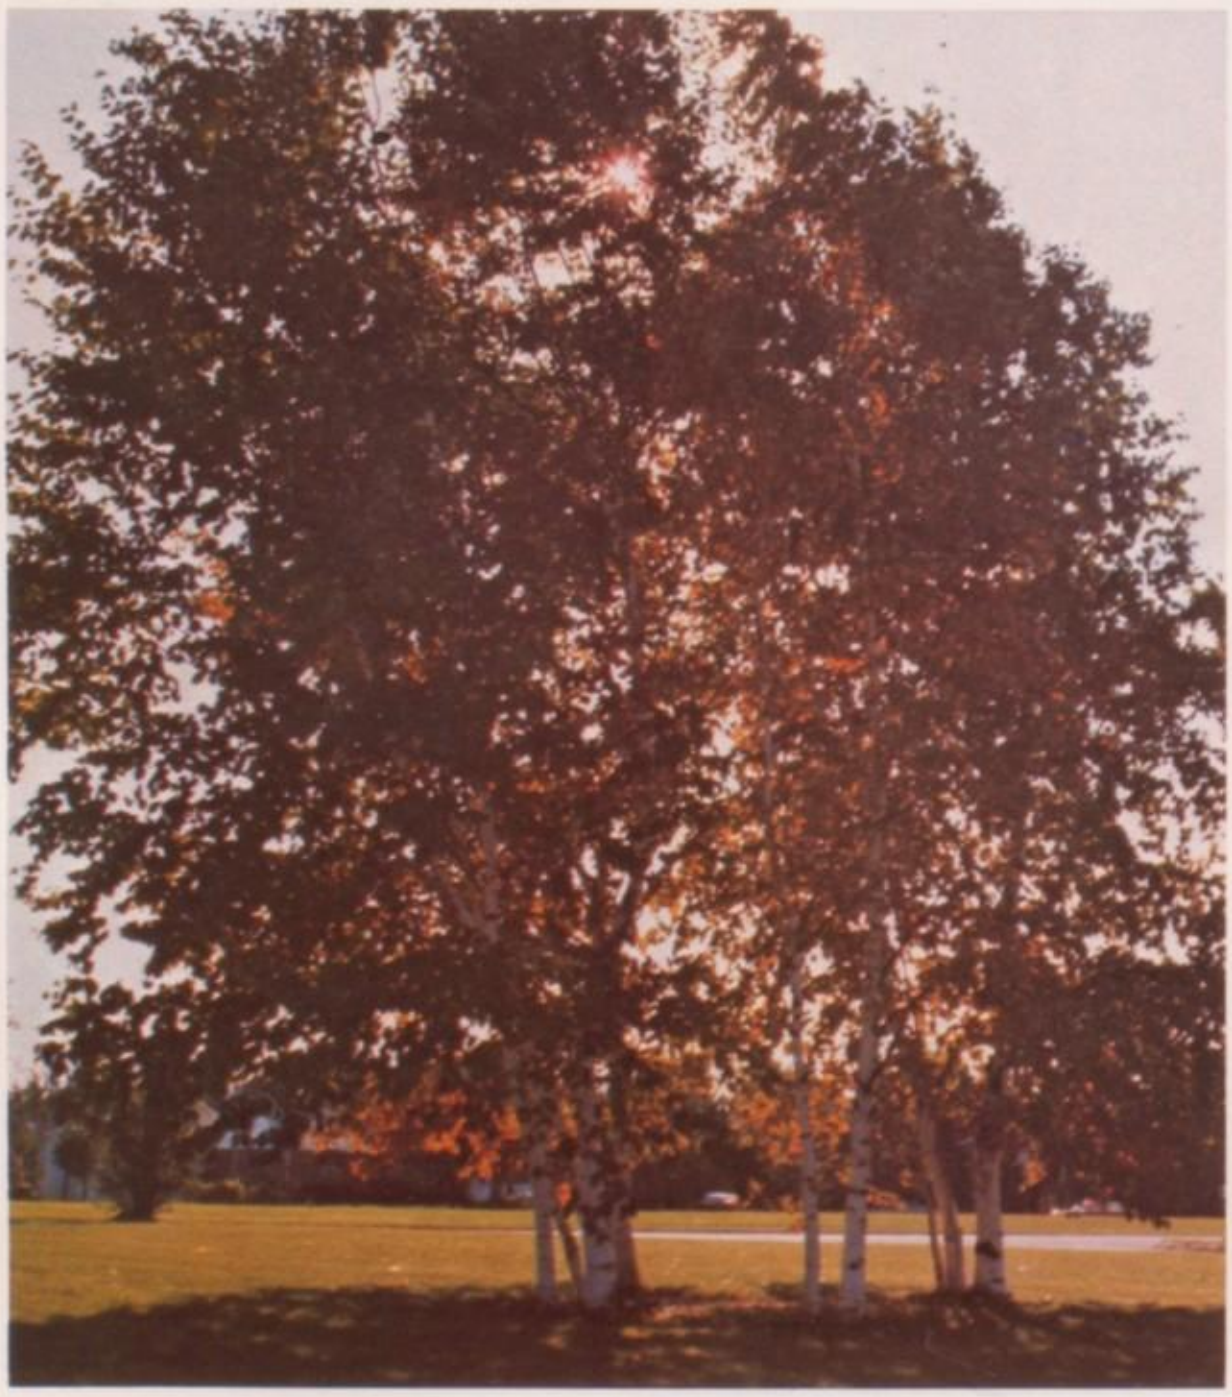
Stretched in his last-found home and knew the old no more.

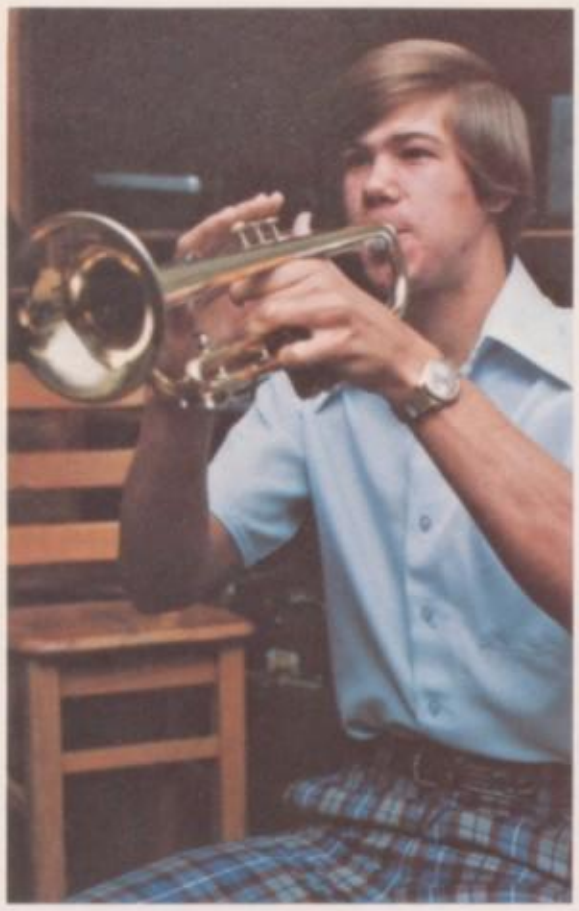
Yet we must eventually leave everything we've grown to know and reach out still for something more.



Thanks for the heavenly message brought by thee . . .

Each of us feels an individual inspiration. Something compels every one of us to seek a goal of our own and to do what we feel is our personal message. We find this within our own growth and our souls.





Child of the wandering sea, cast from her lap forlorn! From thy dead lips a clearer note is born.

Like the child of the wandering sea, we go from place to place seeking an answer to our life. We then cast away these unrestful thoughts and pay heed to those feelings that let us feel we are headed in the right direction.

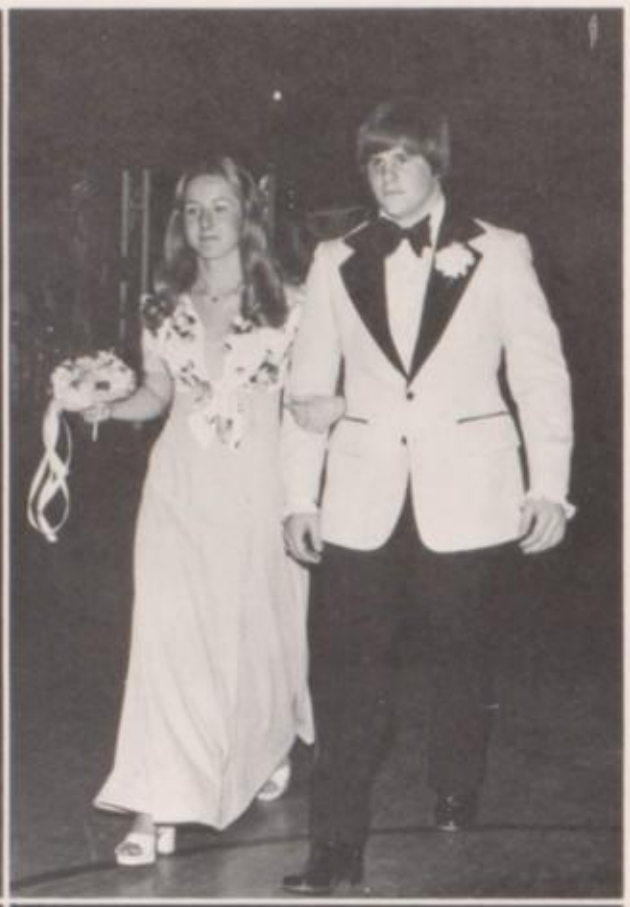
STUDENT LIFE



As the Queen's court enters the gym with their dates, they become a part of the magic in the atmosphere. The 1974 Senior attendants are Cathy Moock and Paula Sogan. Their escorts are Tim Smith and Mike Menegade, The Junior attendants are Heidi Davis and Jenny Spencer. Escorting them are Tim Wrigley and Brian Walters.

Michele Torrence was the reigning queen for the 1974 prom's activities. Her smile shows that the evening is one that will not be easily forgotten.

Mary Thompson and her escort Dan Stuffel enjoy dancing to one of the many songs played at the prom. The expression on their faces indicate the evening is one that will not be easily forgotten.

ning is very thrilling and will not be forgotten soon. Her escort for the night is Mike Coyle.

Prom A Magical Spell Of Disney

The theme of last year's prom was "The Wonderful World of Disney." The walls of the gym were decorated with murals of Disney characters such as Pluto, Bambi, Snow White, and Mickey Mouse. They all added a certain charm and magic to the dance. The art department provided the decorations that created a special atmosphere.

The refreshment table was designed as the home of the seven dwarfs. Six Sophomore girls, who dressed as the dwarfs, kept the table filled with goodies made by the refreshment committee. To further the enchantment, Jack Midas and his band provided music for dancing in which many students participated.

As in other years, the prom was the responsibility of the Junior class. They were helped by Mr. Kieffer, Mr. Palmer, Mrs. Griel, and Miss Palmer, who were their advisors. Everyone contributed many hours of hard work preparing for the prom, and it took two full days to complete the gym. The final result was the transformation of the gym so that it looked like the pages of a storybook. Walt Disney himself would have surely approved.

It was a prom to be remembered by those who took part in the preparation and by those who attended it, as a successful venture.

ior April Kidder. Val and April were elected by popular vote of their classmates in the band.

Blossoming Beauties Adorn Spring

Activities of the spring of 1974 included the band prom, the choir's Spring Sing, and the track team's invitational, all of which had a host of beauties reigning over them.

"Land of Atlantis" was the theme of the band prom held in March. Queen Jan Wilkins and King Rick Scott watched over the festivities. The band enjoyed dancing to the music of Jack Halkides and the social getting together. Members of the band decorated the gym, transforming it into an underwater kingdom.

The choir's Spring Sing was held in May. The first event was the annual concert which was a combination of performances by the A'Cappella Choir, the Sophomore Mixed Choir and the Girl's Glee Club. There were also a number of small groups of choir members who presented individual acts. The dance which followed included activities of dancing and eating.

The track queen, Kathy Gilkinson, and her court presented awards at the North Canton Invitational Track Meet which was held in April at the stadium.

Busy working on the walls at the homecoming decorating rally are Joyce Feldman and Dave Manahan.

Capturing the spirit of the circus through dress-up day, Cindy Hoeh (Leopard) and Phyllis Preston (Clown) talk to friends in the courtyard after the homecoming pep rally.

Circus Spirit Adds To Homecoming

Transforming the gym into a circus is the responsibility of art students directed by Mr. Palmer.

"Hurry, hurry! Step right up and come to the Circus Homecoming!" was the cry heard at Hoover High during the week of September 23-28. The spirit of the circus was present all week with the sale of homecoming mums and tickets, but things really got moving on Thursday when the Booster Club held its annual float decorating and pizza party. On Friday there was a dress up day and the halls became filled with clowns, multi-limbed and headed freaks, fat ladies, and many forms of ferocious wildlife. The next event in the line-up of activities was the circus pep rally. The cheerleaders, dressed as clowns, added to the overall spirit as they performed a clown and acrobatic act. The majorettes also presented a three ring circus including an elephant act, a horse act, and a baton twirling routine by Head Majorette Sharie Hirt.

That night at the game, the queen and her court were crowned during pregame ceremonies, and then retired to sideline seats to watch the first half of the game. At halftime they ascended the float which was designed as a circus tent and were pulled around the stadium while the band played circus music such as Barnum and Bailey's favorites and "Thunder and Blazes." Spirits were encouraged at the game by the clowns who aided the cheerleaders in cheering on the Vikings to a 32 to 0 victory over the Lehman Polar Bears.

At the homecoming dance, Mr. Mattachione was drenched while trying to break up a fight between two clowns. Other entertainment included strongman Dynamite Dan (Greenho), magicians Don (Bresiger) and Chuck (Barkley), lion tamer Jungle Jim (Dragomire) and his ferocious felines, and a juggling contest directed by Ringmaster Kim Cooksey. The contest ended in a draw.

After the amusements, Mr. Mattachione, who had not yet had time to change, instructed the couples in the Hora and then turned them loose with Al Pergola and his band. Refreshments included candy apples, popcorn, peanuts, animal crackers, and orangeade. All in all, the general opinion of those who went to the homecoming was that it was a worthwhile, and most of all, fun evening.

Demonstrating his terrific and amazing strength, Dynamite Dan Greenho performs his weight-lifting act during the entertainment portion of the 1974 homecoming dance.

Assisting Don Bresigner and Chuck Barkley with their magic act, Mr. Mattachione nervously anticipates what kind of thing will come out of the box on top of his head.

Paul Berthalet, who was played by Brian Walters, sings the song "Everybody Likes You" to the puppet Carrot Top. Brian plays a lonely puppeteer whose days with the carnival seem to be numbered.

While singing the love song "Always, Always You" to the Incomparable Rosalie (Ann Winters), Marco the Magnificent (Jeff Bilkert) performs a trick with the magic daggers.

The 1974-75 High Lows were: Standing: Alan Martinson, Fred Clarke, Todd McMullen, Rick Kirk, Joan Sheehan, Dave Mullins, Doug Myers, Scott Mackall, and Jim Strauch. Sitting are: Kris Lundstrom, April Kidder, Julie Myers, Wendy Weigel, Laurie Felscher, Melanie Rice, Nancy Kolarik, and Dawn Lazich.

Lili (Nancy Anderson) gives Carrot Top's nose a tweek as she sings a sad song to him. She is a young girl in her teens that is living with a carnival and her only friend seems at the moment to be the puppet.

A'Cappella Choir Holds A Carnival

The 1974-75 A'Cappella Choir consisted of Juniors and Seniors under the direction of Mr. Glenn Howes. During the year they performed in a fall, Christmas, and a spring concert. The A'Cappella Choir also presented the musical CARNIVAL in the spring of 1974. The auditions for parts in the production began after Christmas and they rehearsed until the performance in March. The leads in CARNIVAL were Brian Walters, Nancy Anderson, Jeff Bilkert, and Ann Winters. The rest of the choir comprised the chorus. Everyone enjoyed doing the musical.

Other groups that were included in the Hoover musical department were the Sophomore Mixed Choir, the Girl's Glee Club, and the High Lows. All of these groups performed in the various concerts. This fall the Girl's Glee Club presented the operetta THE BEAUTY PAGEANT. This was the first time the Glee Club ventured to produce a musical. It was a great success and the girls enjoyed it immensely. The High Lows were a select group of members from the A'Cappella Choir. Tryouts for the High Lows were held last spring to determine this year's group. The High Lows also performed at functions within the community.

Enthusiasm Key To Band's Success

Practicing seventh period and sometimes until five o'clock after school, sousaphone player Brian Jones and saxophone player Cindy Wagner prepare for Friday night's band show.

Starting out the year with their annual trek to band camp, the band began a successful year. Camp included getting up with the sun to do calisthenics at seven o'clock, marching in thunderstorms, a hair-raising movie, initiations, and of course, Vesper Point. After camp the band had a few weeks until their first marching date at the Akron South game. All in all, the band had a great season including many standing ovations which could be credited to their enthusiasm.

Because of the size of the band this year, it was divided into a concert band and a symphonic band (comprised of select members). For this reason the band prom was held right after marching season before the band split into two groups. The theme of the prom was "The Wizard of Oz." Members of the band decorated the gym, made refreshments, and lined up the entertainment for the prom themselves. The queen and her court were crowned at the dance, and band members enjoyed dancing to the music of Don Clivi. Almost everybody agreed they had a good time.

The band presented a Christmas concert in conjunction with the choral department in December. They also presented their Spring concert in May. Band members also participated in the solo and ensemble contest in March along with Tag Day which is a fund raising drive. Also the stage band held a festival in May, which was a contest for local stage bands.

Band officers for 1974-75 were Doug Myers — president, Becky Cassler — vice president, April Kidder — secretary, Jeff McVan — treasurer, and Brian Gillespie — publicity chairman. Their duties included, for the president, to take over the band when Mr. McCleaster couldn't be there. The vice president was chairman of the band prom and the rest of the officers' duties fell into line with other organizations. The officers were elected at band camp and served through the year.

Band members Sue Farley and Ed Whitman dance to the music of Don Clivi and his band during the first autumn band prom held right after marching season because of the change in the band's structure.

Cheers And Batons Add Spirit

This year's majorette squad consisted of a total of nine girls with four Seniors, two Juniors, and three Sophomores. They performed at pep rallies, the halftime shows at the football games, and also at the basketball games. A variety of routines were created at band camp by the majorettes and their advisor Carol Koohtz. Included in the routines were fire batons, hoop batons, single and double batons, and several dances. The majorettes performed in a total of 7 different routines.

This year, as always, the varsity and reserve cheerleaders went to summer camp. The reserves traveled to Michigan and received a fourth place trophy. Linda Lockler also placed first as an individual. The varsity squad journeyed to Ohio State University for their week of camp. Here they earned a second place trophy. Heidi Davis also took second place as an individual and Linda Meister won fourth. Both teams then went to Lansing, Michigan to compete nationally. The reserves placed in the top twenty and the varsity placed eighth in the nation. Linda Lockler and Linda Meister again competed individually. Linda Lockler won first place and was awarded the title of Miss Teenage Cheerleader U.S.A. This was the first time that a girl from the same school won this title two years in a row.

The varsity and reserve cheerleaders do a mount at the end of the cheer "Two Bits, Four Bits" at the Jackson pep rally. They show all of their school spirit in the cheers and chants they do.

Linda Lockler, who was chosen Miss Teenage Cheerleader U.S.A. demonstrates one of the motions used in cheering. She has a big smile which shows her pep, spirit, and enthusiasm.

On the sidelines majorettes Becky Cassler, Janice Holiday, Ann Bethal, Kelly Patterson, and Sharie Hirt perform a hoop baton routine to the music of the band marching in the background.

While waiting to give the signal to the band to march on to the field, head majorette Sharie Hirt stands perfectly still. She must be nervous to know so many eyes are upon her.

At the circus homecoming pep rally majorettes Lori Haidet and Janice Holiday perform a dance routine. They are elephant trainers displaying their trained elephant played by two other majorettes.

Twenties Roar At Winter Homecoming

The "Roaring Twenties" were revived when Hoover held its 1975 Winter Homecoming. The sports that were honored by the dance were basketball, wrestling, and swimming. The basketball queen was Linda Meister and her escort was Charlie Grandjean. Wrestling queen was Lisa Raye and she was escorted by Dan Smith. The royalty for swimming was queen Sharie Hirt, and she was escorted by Steve Cope.

Entertainment included a variety of 1920's songs such as "Five Foot Two," "Baby Face," and "If You Knew Susie" sung by Tim Kidder, Andy Moock, Linda Lockler, and Teri Johnson. Later Teri also sang "I Honestly Love You." The Charleston music was provided by Jack Halkides and his band and many couples participated in learning the dances of the twenties.

Gambling was held in a separate room. The games played were black jack, roulette, and dice. The money that was won by gambling was used to buy prizes. Other activities included a contest for the boys in which they tied balloons around their ankles and tried to break them. Scott Wulff was the last to have his balloon left and he won a stuffed animal for his date. A bubble blowing contest was held for the girls. The biggest bubble was blown by Julie Woodson and she won a beer stein for her date.

Jane Mohler pours the drinks at the roaring twenties refreshment stand. The refreshments consist of punch served in "booze" bottles, pretzels, and homemade cookies baked by members of the Booster Club.

Attempting to break others' balloons while keeping his in one piece, exchange student Eduardo takes a little hop. Also participating in the background are Fred Clarke, Bob Draper, and Brian Gillespie.

Playing a dice game in the back room of the dance hall, Kim Cooksey puts his money down while being watched by game supervisors Joe Skemp and Lisa Bose. The fake money won by gambling was to be spent on prizes.

Dr. Martin Edwards (Steve Harper) kneels anxiously at the side of his unconscious wife Naomi (Kris Lundstrom), who had been injured when the lights went out at the Cherry Lane Theater in New York.

As hard as she might try, Sharie Hirt just can't unloc her fingers so that she can take her arms from arou Dr. Ross's waist who has hypnotized her into thinkin she can't.

Detective Sergeant Kennedy (Rex Unkefer) questions Mrs. Inglefritz (Lorrie Yost) and her daughter Eloise (Maggie Haines) about the murders of the night. Mrs. Inglefritz always replies "I ain't got nothing to say."

Thespians And Assemblies Entertain

Murders and disappearances climaxed the play, RESERVE TWO FOR MURDER, presented by the Thespians in the spring of 1974. The cast of this "play-within-a-play" was Sally Wern, Kris Lundstrom, Dave Schneider, Rex Unkefer, Lorrie Yost, Maggie Haines, Tom Folts, Steve Harper, Scott Texter, Jane Cox, Chris Cox, Aristotle Maragas, Monica Harrison, and Julie Woodson.

Then in November of 1974 EVERY FAMILY HAS ONE was performed by the Thespians. Skeletons in the family closet built the plot for this play featuring Janet Moon, Laurel Hines, Nancy Swanson, Phyllis Preston, Janet Morgan, Steve Warren, Polly Owens, Dave Cain, Aristotle Maragas, Lynn Martin, Kathy Hoeh, and Dwayn Cubbage.

The most outstanding assembly of the year was a demonstration of hypnotism by Dr. Irwin Ross. He hypnotized a group of volunteer seniors and was even able to make them believe that their belly buttons were missing. Talk about the show circulated around the school for days after.

Dr. Irwin Ross greets Chuck Coletta on stage after saying the word "purple" to which he responded by acting like Elvis Presley. Chuck really thinks that he is Elvis because the idea has been put into his mind.

Many Hoover Students Excel Academically

This year three students made it to the National Merit Semifinals for their high scores on the PSAT-NMSQT test. They scored in the top 1 per cent of the nation. Six students received letters of commendation for scoring in the top 2 per cent.

Five students were chosen to attend the 1974 Girls' and Boys' State. Girls' State was held at Capital University and Boys' was at Ashland College. The main activity at this event was to participate in a mock state government. All state officials, a senate and a House of Representatives were elected.

This year DECA's hard work was again rewarded with a first place district trophy. This was the second consecutive year that they have been awarded this honor. Out of a possible 55 points the DECA students received 33 points.

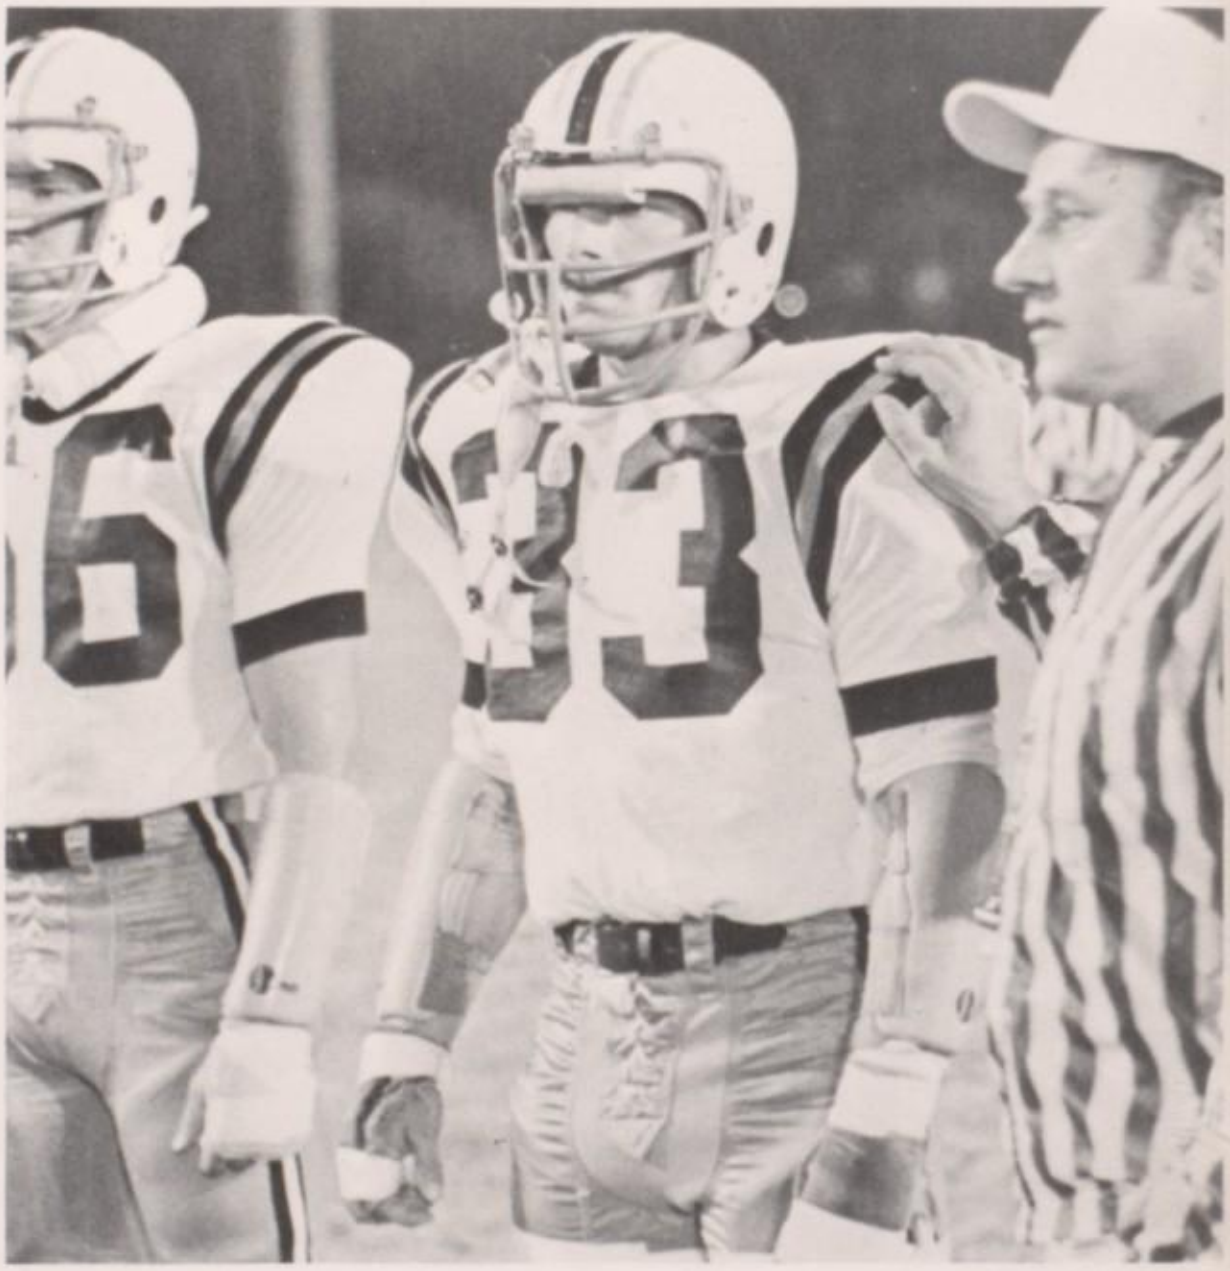
Coach Hertler gives last minute instructions to the Vikings before going out to play while Charlie Grandjean (22), Scott Richardson (82), Al Orth (31), and Pat Southworth (80) listen attentively. The Vikings had an 8-2 record this year which gave the Vikings second place in the Federal League.

Minutes before halftime, Brad Baker runs for a touchdown after making a spectacular catch. Baker received many honors, such as All Federal League, All County, and All Northeastern Ohio.



Hoover co-captains Jeff Chufar (56) and Jerry Dolvin (33) with the referee before the Lehman game. Hoover defeated Lehman homecoming night amid the circus celebrations by the score of 34-0.

Vikings Have 8-2 Football Record

The Hoover Vikings had an 8-2 record this year in football, losing only to Perry and Louisville. Coach Hertler said this team was "one of the finest we've had, especially defensively."

There were many outstanding players on the team this year. Brad Baker, Doug Rush, Bob Mitchel, Bill Schreckengost, and Kim Cooksey were selected to be on the All Federal League Team. Tim Mathie and Al Orth were on the Federal League Second Team. In addition, Baker and Mitchell were on the All County Squad. Baker was also on the All-District, All-Northeastern Ohio, and All-Ohio teams.

Most valuable players this year were Brad Baker and Bob Mitchel. Quarterback Mitchell completed 108 of 196 passes for a 55.1 percentage. This came to a total of 1,644 yards and 18 touchdowns. Split end Baker caught 53 passes for 815 yards and 12 touchdowns. Coach Hertler called Baker, "the best end I've ever coached."

Honored at the banquet were Tim Mathie, defensive lineman of the year; Bill Schreckengost, offensive lineman of the year; Kim Cooksey, back of the year; and Doug Rush who received the $100 Scholastic Achievement Award.

Leading scorer for Hoover this year was Brad Baker with 74 points. He was followed by Kim Cooksey with 66, Charlie Grandjean who had 60, Marty Martin had 30, Al Orth had 26, Jerry Dolvin had 20, Dan Greenho had 18, and Tom Caniford, Tim Staley, and Bill Moore all scored 6 points.

John Coyle shows an expression of exhaustion and much hopefulness as he nervously watches his defensive teammates playing on the field. Coyle played offensive center for the Vikings this year.

On the sidelines, Coach Hertler gives instructions as his players attentively listen. Coach Hertler, along with Coaches Knisely and Viscounte, led their players to an 8-2 record.

Marty Martin attempts the extra point while Brad Baker holds the ball and Jerry Dolvin blocks. The Vikings went on to win the first game against Akron South which led the way to an 8-2 record.

Vikings Beat Raiders, Dukes, Cats

The North Canton Hoover Vikings avenged their 21-20 loss to Oakwood last year as they defeated the Raiders 28-0. This was the Viking's sixth shutout of the season which broke a school record of the most shutouts in a single season. This record had stood since 1944.

Quarterback Bob Mitchell completed 16 of 32 passes for 214 yards. Three of these passes turned into touchdowns. Brad Baker had two of these touchdowns and Al Orth scored the other touchdown pass. Another touchdown was scored by Charlie Grandjean on a 12-yard run.

Before the North Canton-Marlington football game, Dick Miller was honored for 25 years of service as groundskeeper at North Canton Memorial Stadium. Miller was presented an engraved plaque, season tickets to the Cleveland Browns' games, a Browns' jacket, and a box of cigars by the Sideliners. The North Canton Hoover Band Parents Club gave him a clock radio and he was also given a football autographed by the Hoover football team.

After the ceremonies, the Vikings came onto the field to defeat the Marlington Dukes by the score of 29-8.

Two of Hoover's touchdowns were scored by Kim Cooksey. The other two touchdowns were scored by Brad Baker on passes from Bob Mitchell.

In the Marlington game, Mitchell completed 11 out of 16 passes for 186 yards. Baker caught six passes for 103 of these yards. Hoover gained 99 yards rushing against Marlington with Kim Cooksey getting 64 of those yards.

After Hoover defeated Canton South 34-0, Coach Hertler said it was the "best over-all performance of the year." A fired-up Hoover football team went into the locker room at halftime leading the Wildcats 21-0.

Two of the first half touchdowns were made by Kim Cooksey and the other was scored by Brad Baker on a pass from Mitchell. In the second half, Charlie Grandjean and Al Orth each scored touchdowns to make the final score 34-0.

Vikings Beat Polar Bears In Finale

The weekend of the Louisville football game began Thursday night when the entire city of North Canton gathered for a "Beat Louisville" parade and rally.

All week, students worked on their door decorations. On Friday, each homeroom door in the school had a poster on it pertaining to the theme, "Beat Louisville." That afternoon, winners of the contest were announced at the pep rally. Seven awards were given — two to each class and one overall grand prize.

The highlight of the weekend came Friday night when the two teams played in North Canton Memorial Stadium in front of 7,500 fans. Hoover put forth their best effort, but Louisville's defense was too much for the Vikings. The Leopards defeated the Vikings by the score of 9-0 in a very close and hard-fought game.

After this defeat, the Vikings lost their bid for a third straight Federal League championship. The title was taken by the Leopards with their 7-1 record in Federal League play.

Having lost a close game to Louisville the week before, Hoover came back the final game to beat their rival, the Jackson Polar Bears, 29-7.

Jackson scored the first touchdown of the ball game, but after the score, Hoover dominated the ball game.

After injuring his shoulder in the game against Louisville, Bob Mitchel recovered the next week to complete 11 passes. Two of these were touchdown passes. One was a 29-yard pass to Jerry Dolvin and the other was a 14-yard pass to Brad Baker. Tom Caniford scored a touchdown after he intercepted a pass and ran it 25 yards for a touchdown.

Jerry Dolvin scored the last touchdown on a five-yard run into the end zone. Brad Baker intercepted two passes while Doug Rush and Tom Caniford each intercepted one pass.

In this game, Hoover gained 246 yards. One hundred thirty two of these yards were gained by passing and 114 of them were gained by rushing.

Al Orth fights for the ball with an Oakwood player and later scores a touchdown that leads to a 28-0 win. The victory gave Hoover its sixth shutout of the season which was a school record for most shutouts in a season.

Dan Anderson (43) tackles a Louisville runner while Doug Rush (15) runs to help. Also watching the action are Mike Maurer (71) and Tom Caniford (81). The Vikings lost the league title by losing this game 9-0. It was a very close battle, but the Vikings could not overcome Louisville's defense.

For Second Year, Reserves Unbeaten

For the second year in a row, the Reserve team went undefeated. The Reserve gridders of the 1974 season went 8-0 through a combined effort of all the players and coaches. Mr. Gross, who is one of the Reserve coaches said this was "one of the best Reserve squads ever."

Hoover's Reserve defensive team went the entire season unscored upon by repelling all offensive scoring attempts of their opposing teams.

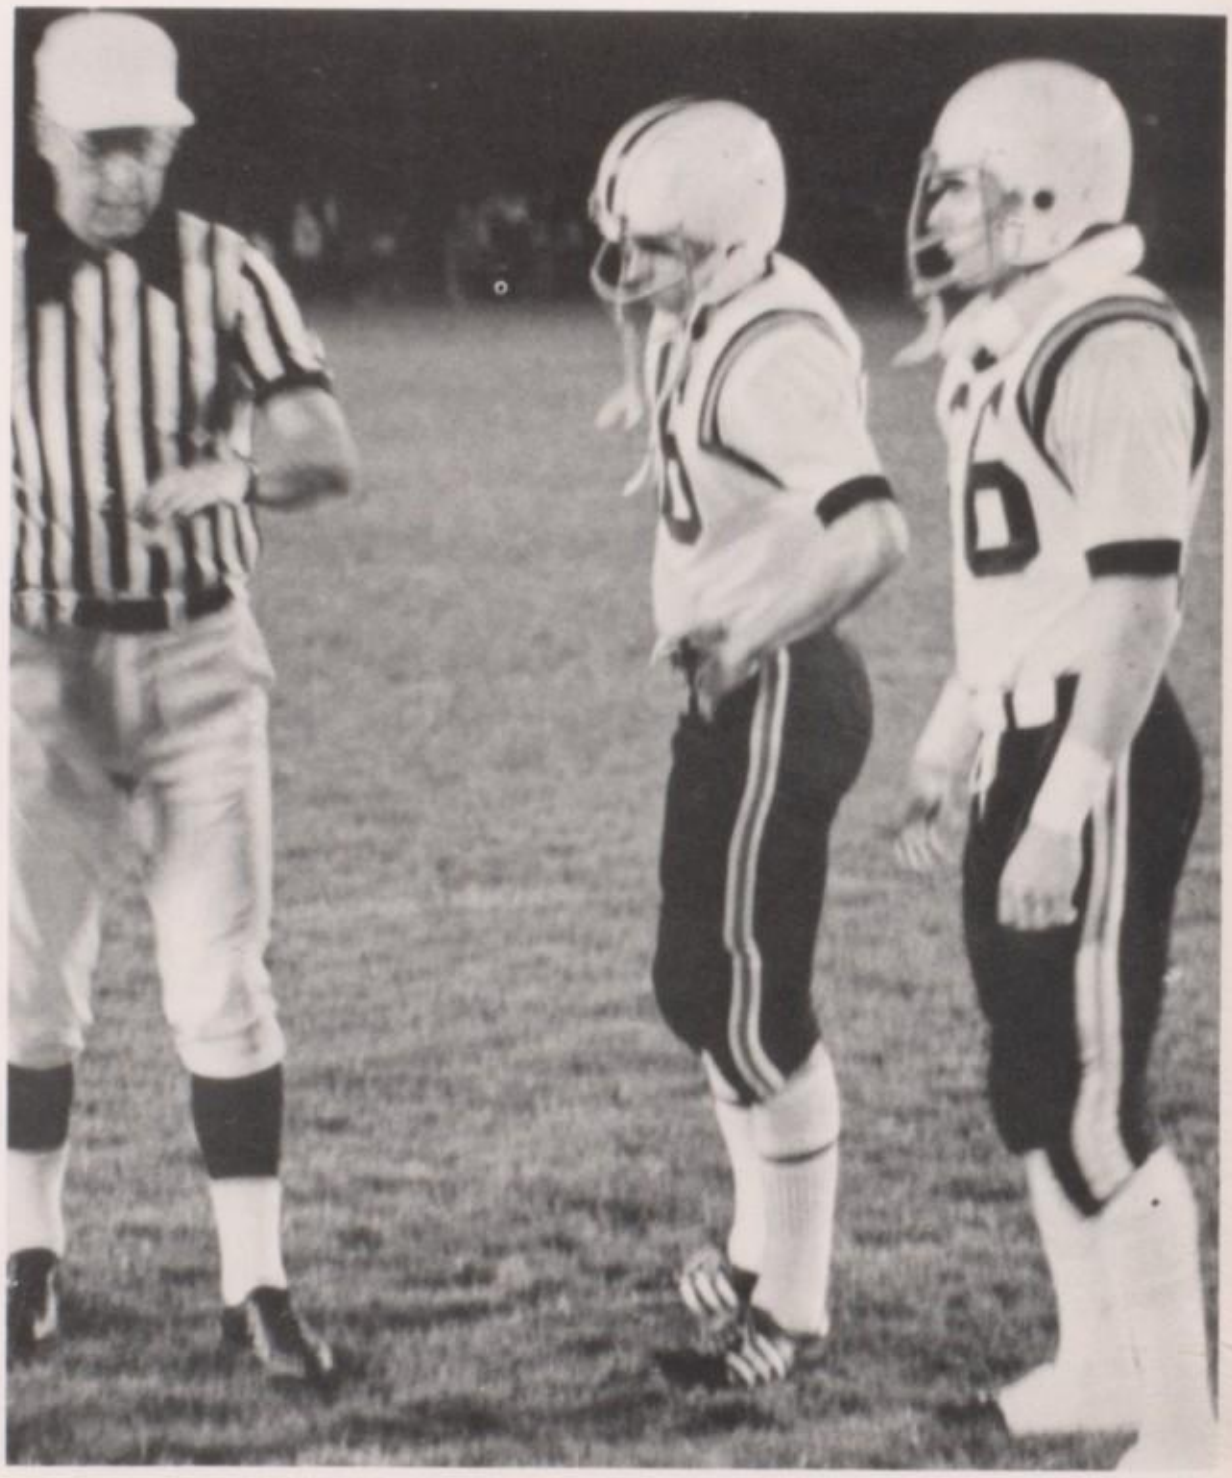
The Vikings' offensive unit rushed for 164 points in eight games. In the second game of the season, through an offensive bobble, Perry was the only team to score against the Vikings in a close game of 7-2. Dan Greenho scored the Viking touchdown against Perry when he caught a pass from Jeff Houseman and ran for a touchdown.

This Perry game was one of the highlights of the season because the Varsity lost a heartbreaking game the night before to the Panthers. It was evident in the game that the Reserves were out to get revenge as they fought their hardest to win on the next morning.

Many fans crawled out of their beds to support their team who played at ten o'clock on Saturday mornings.

Another highlight of the Reserve season came November 2 when again the Reserves wanted revenge. That Saturday morning, the Reserve team traveled to Louisville ready to give the Leopards their toughest game of the season. After the game, Louisville was stunned with a 20-0 defeat.

Charlie Grandjean catches a 20-yard pass from quarterback Bob Mitchell to score his second touchdown of the game. This touchdown gave Hoover a 21-0 lead and helped the Vikings to a 48-0 win over Akron South.



Watching the referee toss the coin before the Louisville game are co-captains Bob Mitchell and Kim Cooksey. Louisville wins the toss and elects to receive the football.

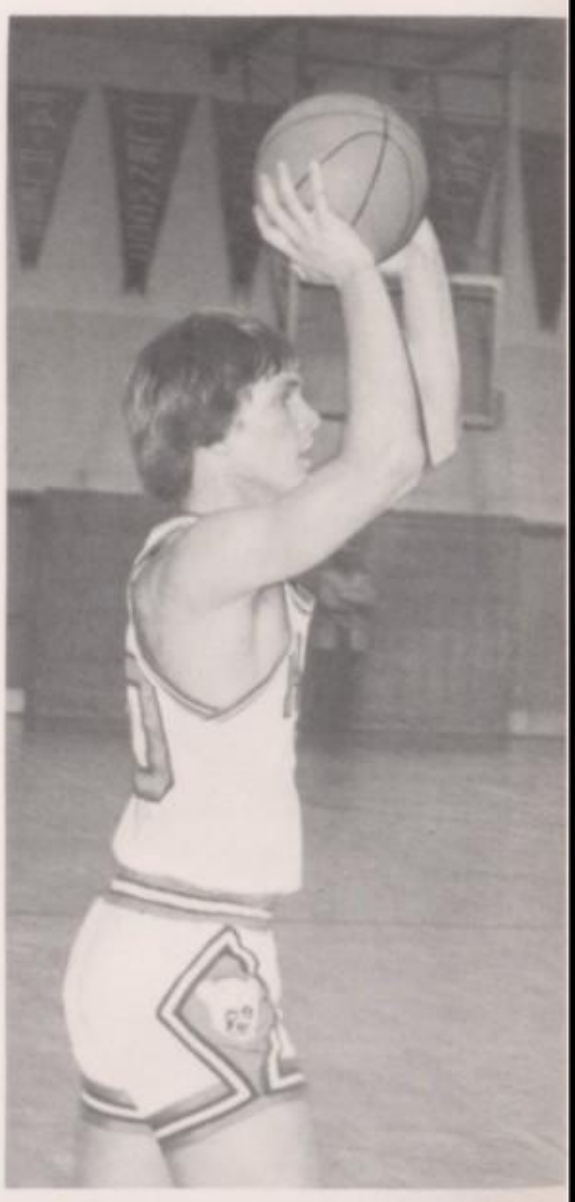
Basketball Team Loses Close Games

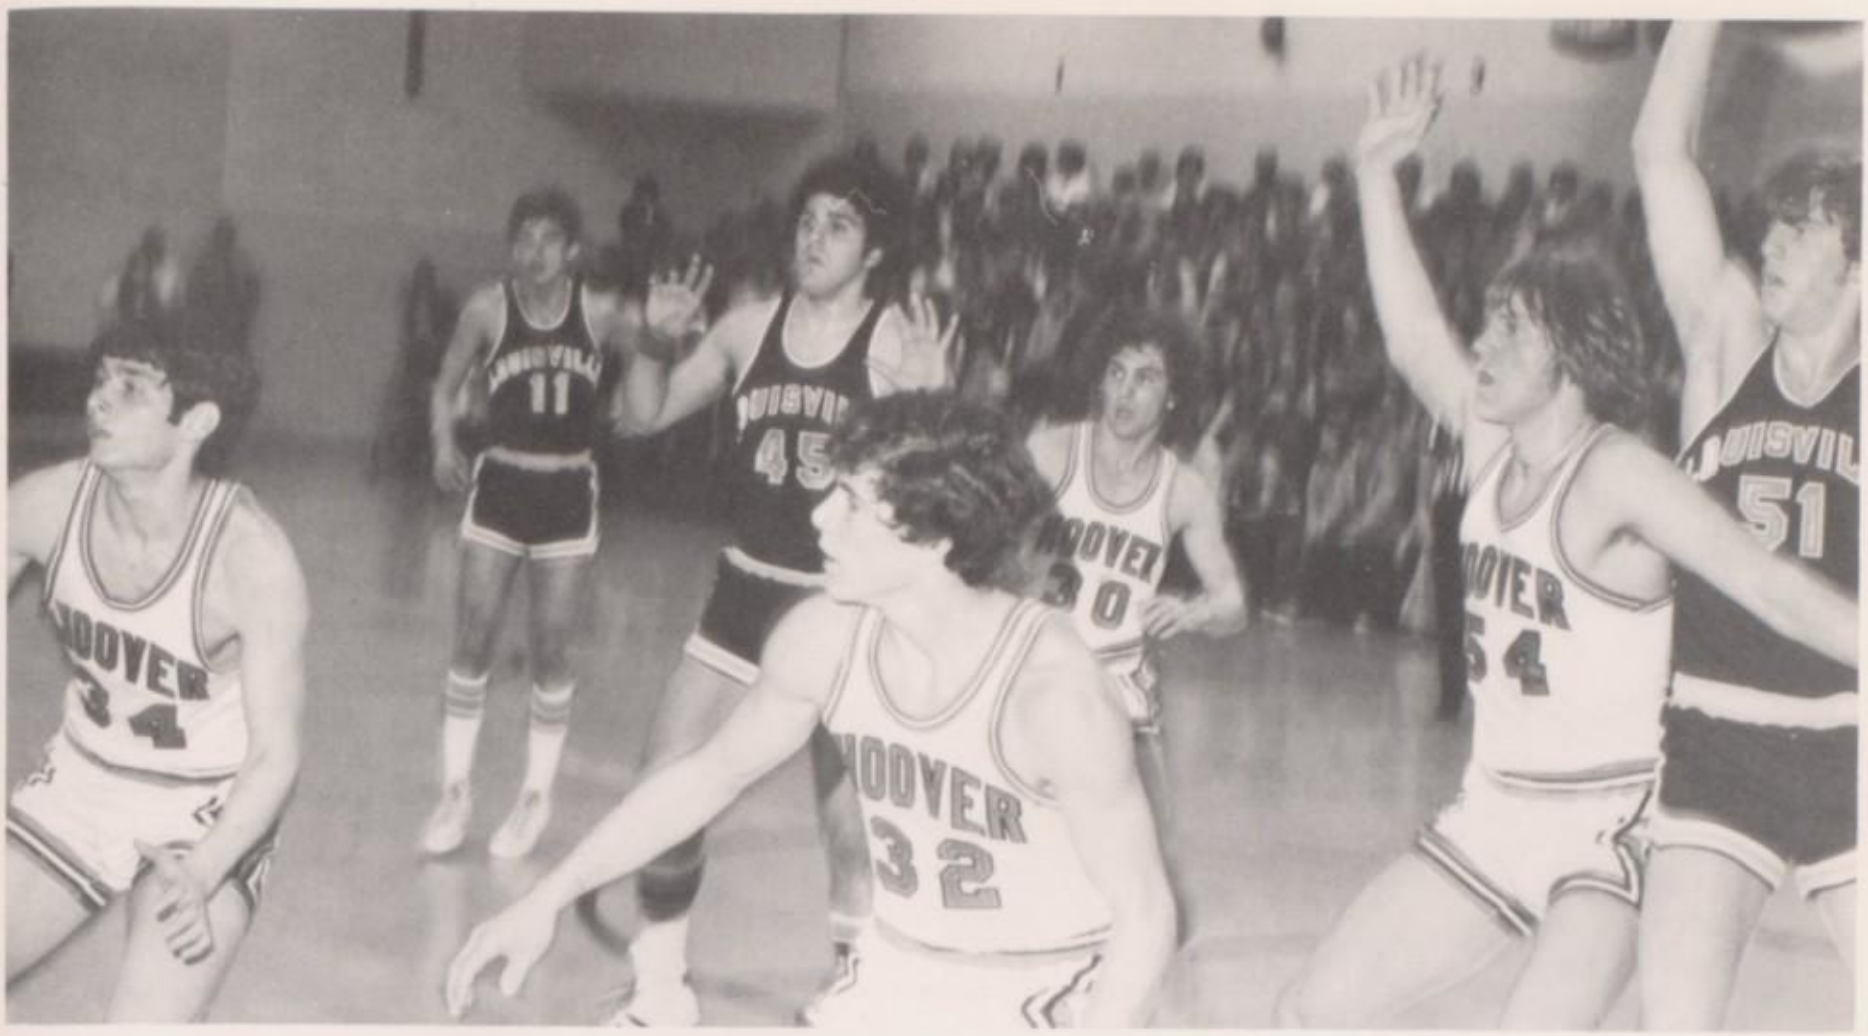
Although the Viking 1974-1975 basketball team had only a 3-15 record, they had a losing margin of a mere 7.2 points per game. Six of the 17 games were lost by only four points or less. Hoover had some of the finest shooters in the Federal League and for the most part, were very close to their opponents in rebounds. Turnovers were costly for the Vikings because this was often the category in which they lost many of their games.

Coach Goodpasture said that Hoover might have been hampered by the continued alterations in the starting lineup because so many players were so even. Alternating in the backcourt were senior Bob Mitchell, junior Stan Slabaugh, and junior Tom Caniford. Junior Charlie Grandjean and senior Brad Baker started on the wings, and senior Tom Larsen and junior Mike Maurer played at the center position. Junior Stan Slabaugh received the honor of being named to the All-Federal League Honorable Mention Team.

Charlie Grandjean and Bob Mitchell watch the basket with anticipation after a teammate shoots the basketball. Both Charlie and Bob helped the Vikings this year with their good shooting abilities.



After senior co-captain Tom Larsen finds an opening, he shoots the ball for two points. Tom was a tremendous asset to the 1974-1975 basketball team as he was a fine shooter and rebounder.



Four members of the Viking basketball team, Stan Slabaugh, Charlie Grandjean, Bob Mitchell, and Mike Maurer try to guard their opponents while they watch their player who has the basketball. The Vikings finished the season this year with a 3-15 record under Coach Goodpasture.

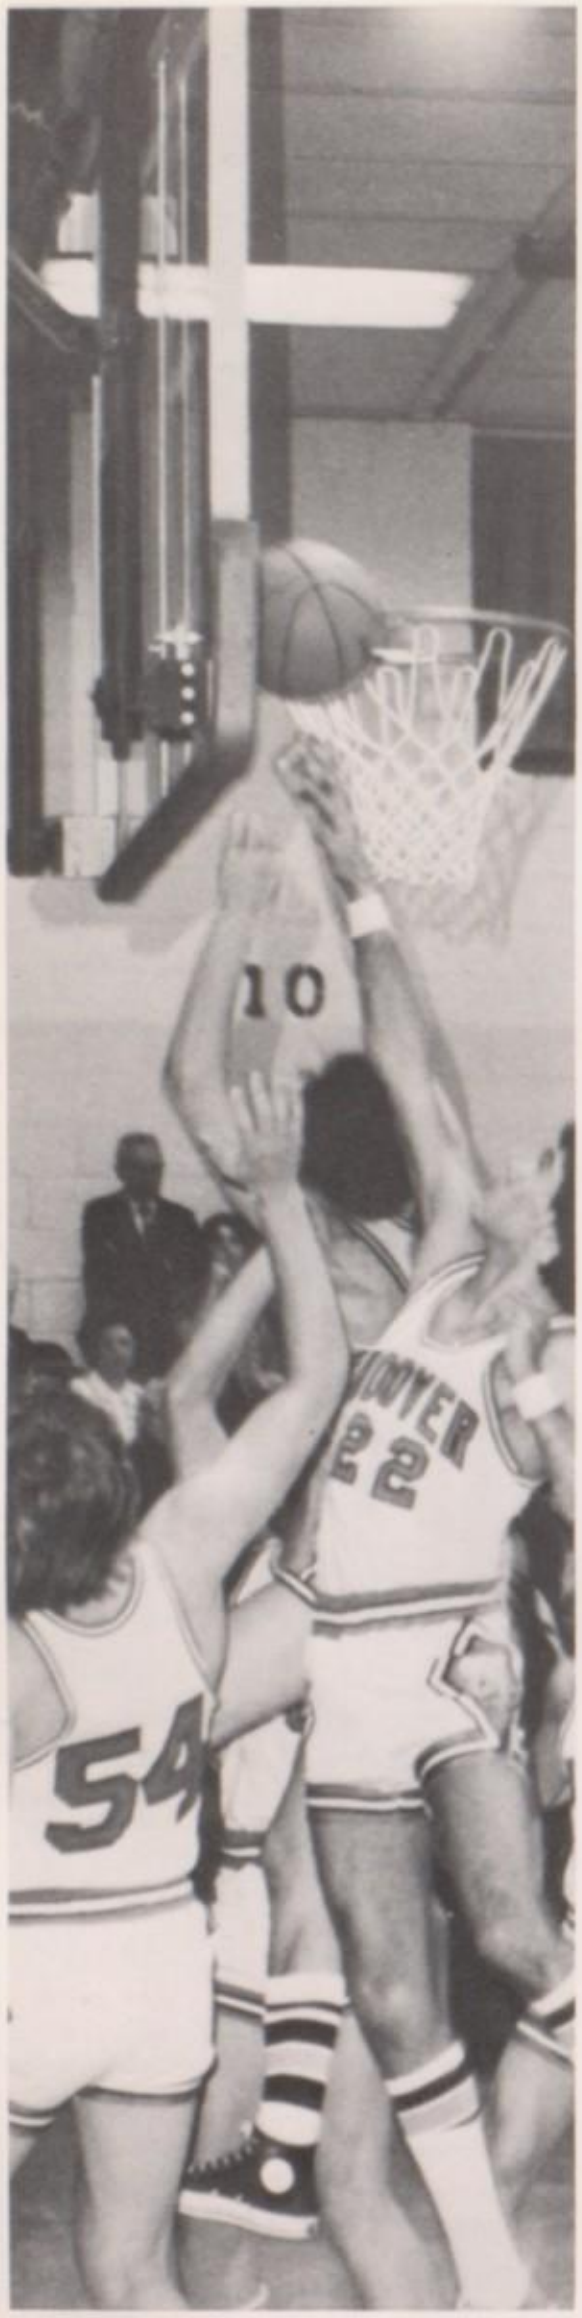
Reserves Win Federal League

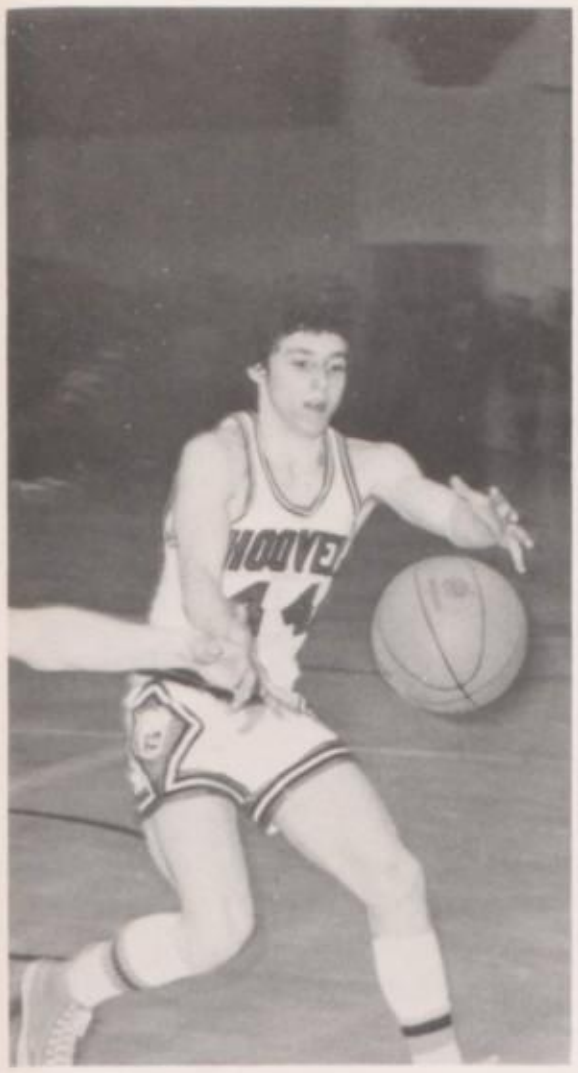
The 1974-1975 Reserve Basketball Team was Federal League Champions this year. They were coached by Mr. Parks who was in his second year as Reserve basketball coach for the Vikings.

Outstanding players for the Reserve Team were Mickey Jordan, Tim Betz, Mark Weigel, and Jeff Casner. Mickey was the high scorer for the Vikings and Tim also was a good shooter and helped chalk up points for Hoover. Mark and Jeff helped the Vikings tremendously in getting rebounds. Mickey was put onto the Varsity team for the tournament game against Wooster.



Brad Baker tries for a lay up against some Perry opponents while Mike Maurer watches to see that the ball falls into the basket. Mike and Brad were both good rebounders for the Vikings this year.

Mark Weigel, Mickey Jordan, and Tim Betz intently await the rebound while a Louisville opponent shoots a foul shot. Mark, Mickey, and Tim were members of the 1974-75 Reserve basketball team.



Junior Tom Caniford attempts to catch the ball his teammate throws to him as a Perry opponent tries to intercept the pass. Tom was a good shooter this year and helped give the Vikings many needed points.

Mike Maurer concentrates on a foul shot while Stan Slabaugh and Bob Mitchell watch and wait for the teams to come down court after the shot. Maurer helped the team this year in getting many necessary rebounds.

Reserve basketball player Jeff Casner watches the ball after he tries for a basket. Jeff was a member of the 1974-1975 Reserve basketball team that won the Federal League Championship.

After running down the court, Vicky Pittman goes for an easy layup. Plays that were well-executed, such as this one, helped the Viking girls win many games in basketball this year.

Viking Girls Are Victorious

The 1975 girls' basketball teams were coached by Mrs. Snode. The Reserve team had a record of 6-0 and the varsity was 3-4. The high scorer for the Reserve was Patty Roberts and the Varsity high scorer was Jennifer Janson. The high scorer for a single game was Jennifer Janson who scored 30 points against Canton South. Pam Blackshere was the best rebounder on the team and Jennifer Janson had the best percent from the field. The captains of the Varsity team were Pam Blackshere and Pa Heidy. The Reserve captains were Vicky Pittman and Julie Hartong.

The 1974 girls' Varsity volleyball team had a 6-4 record and the Reserves had a 7-3 record. Outstanding members of the team were Jennifer Janson, Sue Trachsel, Becky Comenescu, Jan Gillman, Stef Demos, and Pam Blackshere. They were coached by Miss Lowe.

Getting the edge on the jumpball against her opponent, Kim Blackshere tries to get the ball to her teammate. Kim, who is a sophomore helped the Vikings to many victories this season.

Sue Trachsel jumps up to hit the volleyball after the opposing team serves the ball. Becky Comenscu and Jenny Janson stand behind Sue to back her up while Jan Gillman and Brenda Quinn stand in front ready for the set up. The varsity volleyball team compiled a record of 6-4 and the reserves were 7-3.

Viking Matmen Have Even Season

The 1974-1975 Hoover Wrestling Team had a record of 5-5. Although the record isn't very good, it doesn't justify the ability of the Viking wrestlers. Hoover was hindered by a great deal of injuries this year. This forced Mr. Tolarchyk into adjusting the starting lineup many times. A total of 23 different grapplers wrestled in varsity matches this year.

Many of the matches that Hoover lost this year were very close and the victories could have gone to either team. These matches were lost because of injuries and some questionable calls by the referee.

Three members of the wrestling team ended up undefeated in dual matches. They were Greg Sweitzer, Mike Merriman, and Steve Alguire. Another outstanding wrestler was Dan Cassanos, who moved to North Canton from Indiana in the middle of the season. Dan had a 3-0 dual match record for Hoover. Other good wrestlers for Hoover this year were Bill Michel, John Valentine, Dan Smith, and Bob Armstrong.

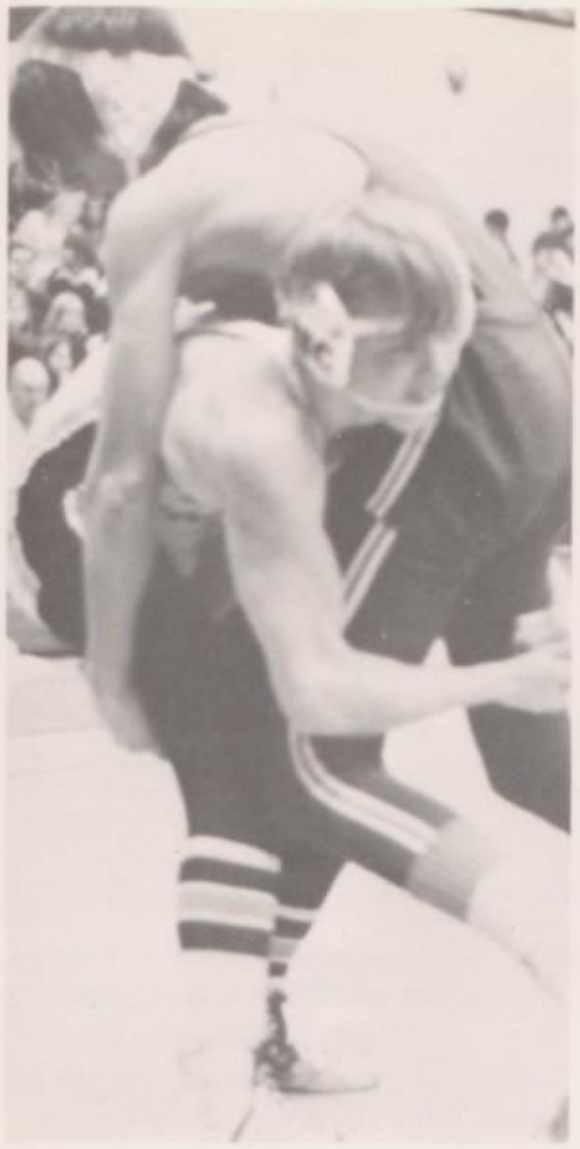
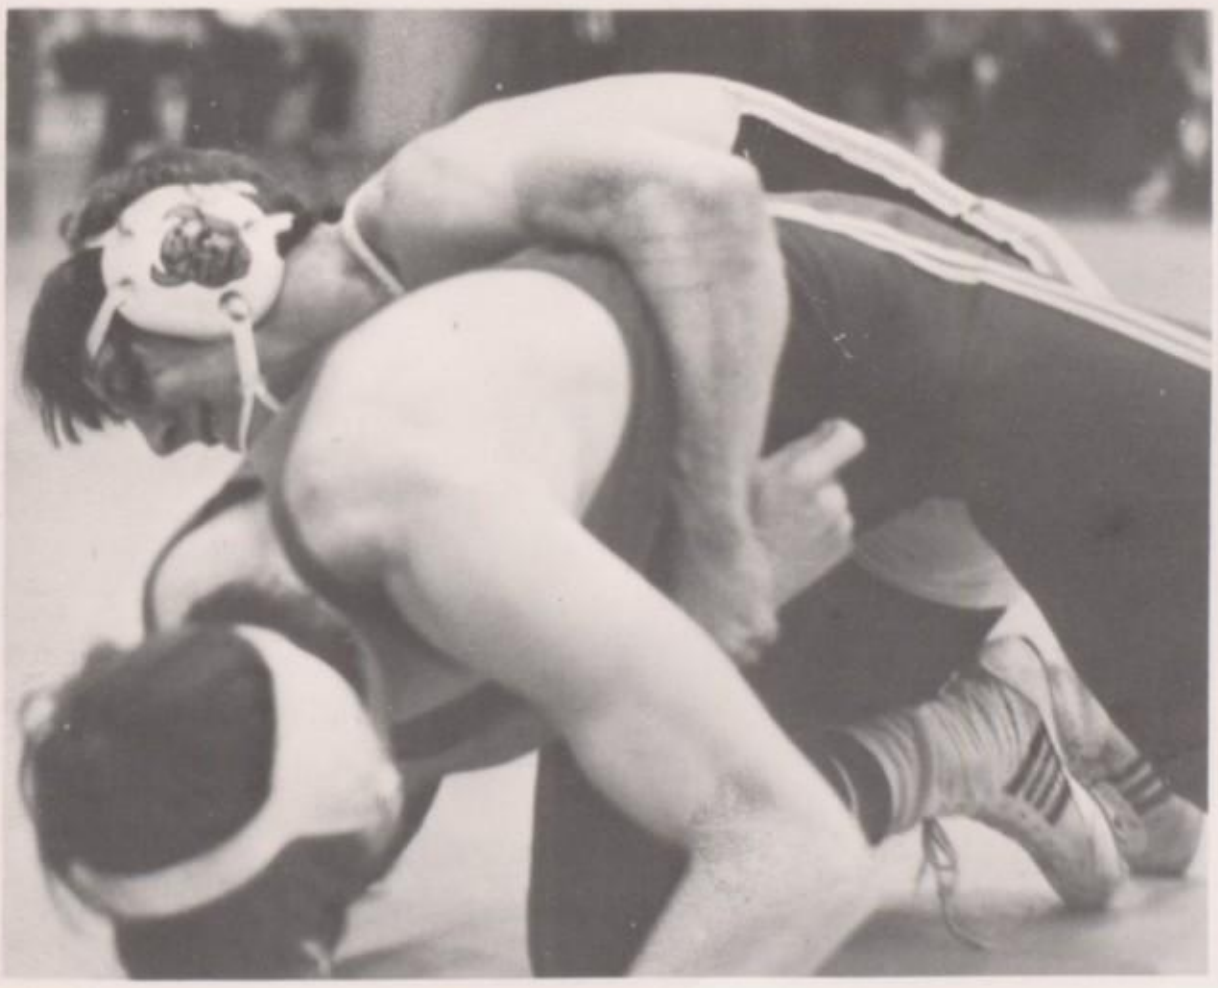
Trying to hold onto his opponent, senior 167-pound wrestler, John Coyle, uses his concentration and determination as he contemplates a hard move while working to turn his opponent over for a pin. A wrestler not only has to be strong, but he must also know many techniques and moves that make a good wrestler.



Attempting to take down his opponent, senior Bill Michel grabs his legs and attempts to pick him up and put him on the mat for two points. Bill was an asset to the team and was first in the Coventry Tournament.

Heavyweight Jeff Brinkley has his opponent on his back and tries his hardest for a pin which would give the team six more points and help the Viking Wrestlers win another match.



Senior Steve Alguire, a 138-pound wrestler attempts to turn his Glenwood opponent on his back so that he can work for a pin. Steve was undefeated in dual meets this year. He was second in the Coventry Tournament.

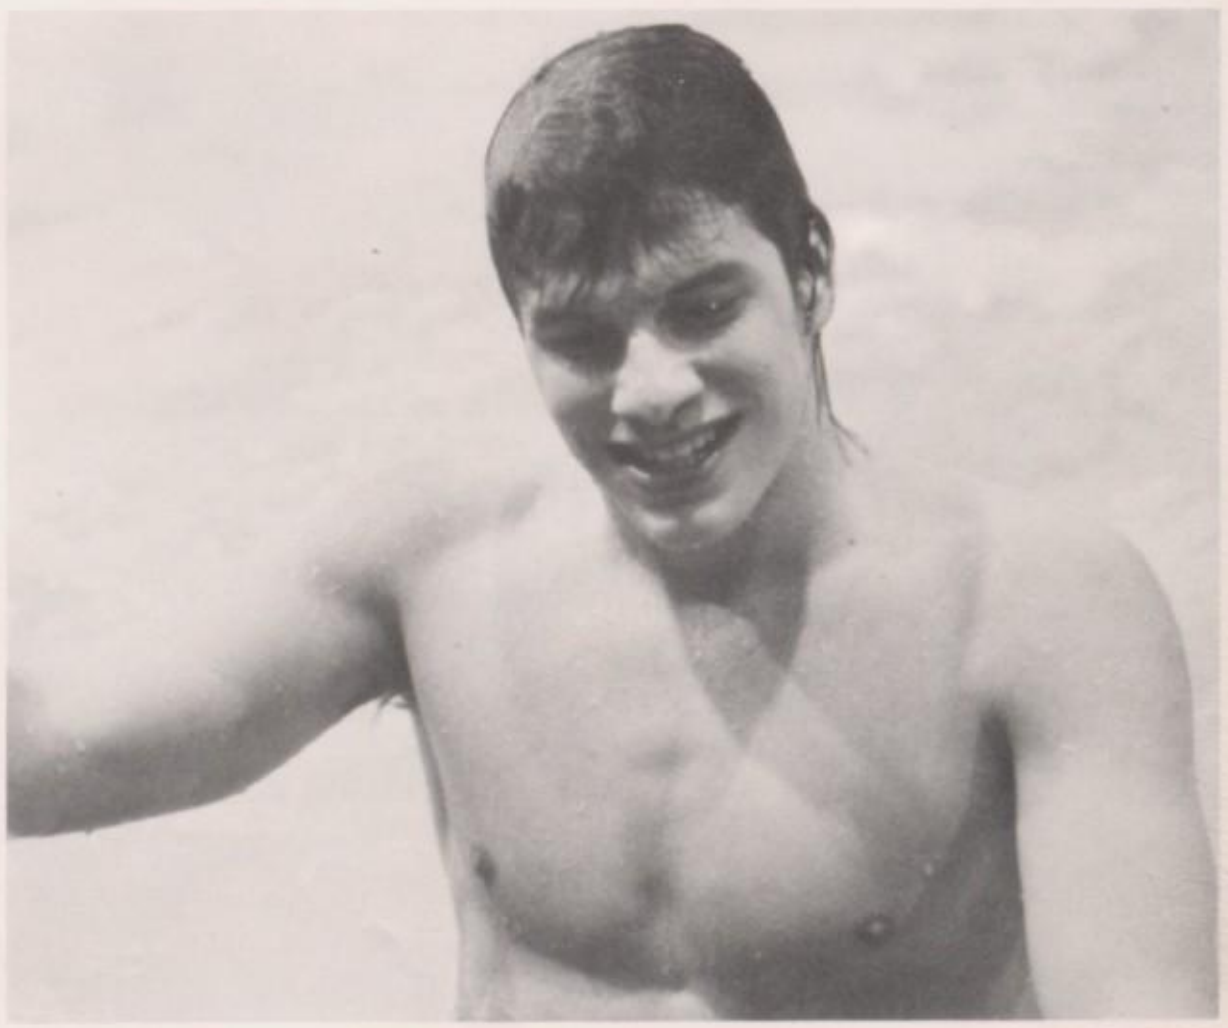
Swimmers Set Six New Records

Under the coaching of Mr. Morrison, the 1974-1975 Viking Marlins swam to a 5-6 overall record.

The swimmers broke six records this year. In the medley relay, Bill Armour, Charlie Tobias, Russ Chambers, and Mark Junemann broke the record with a time of 1:50.1. Junior Russ Chambers broke three records this year. They were in the 200-yard-free with a time of 1:52.8, the 200-yard-individual medley with a 2:08.6 time, and the 500 free with a time of 5:18.7. Sophomore Kurt Renyolds broke the school diving record this year with 219.85 points. In the 100 breast, senior Charlie Tobias had a time of 1:06.0. Next year's team promises to be good because of the large number of returning underclassmen on the team.

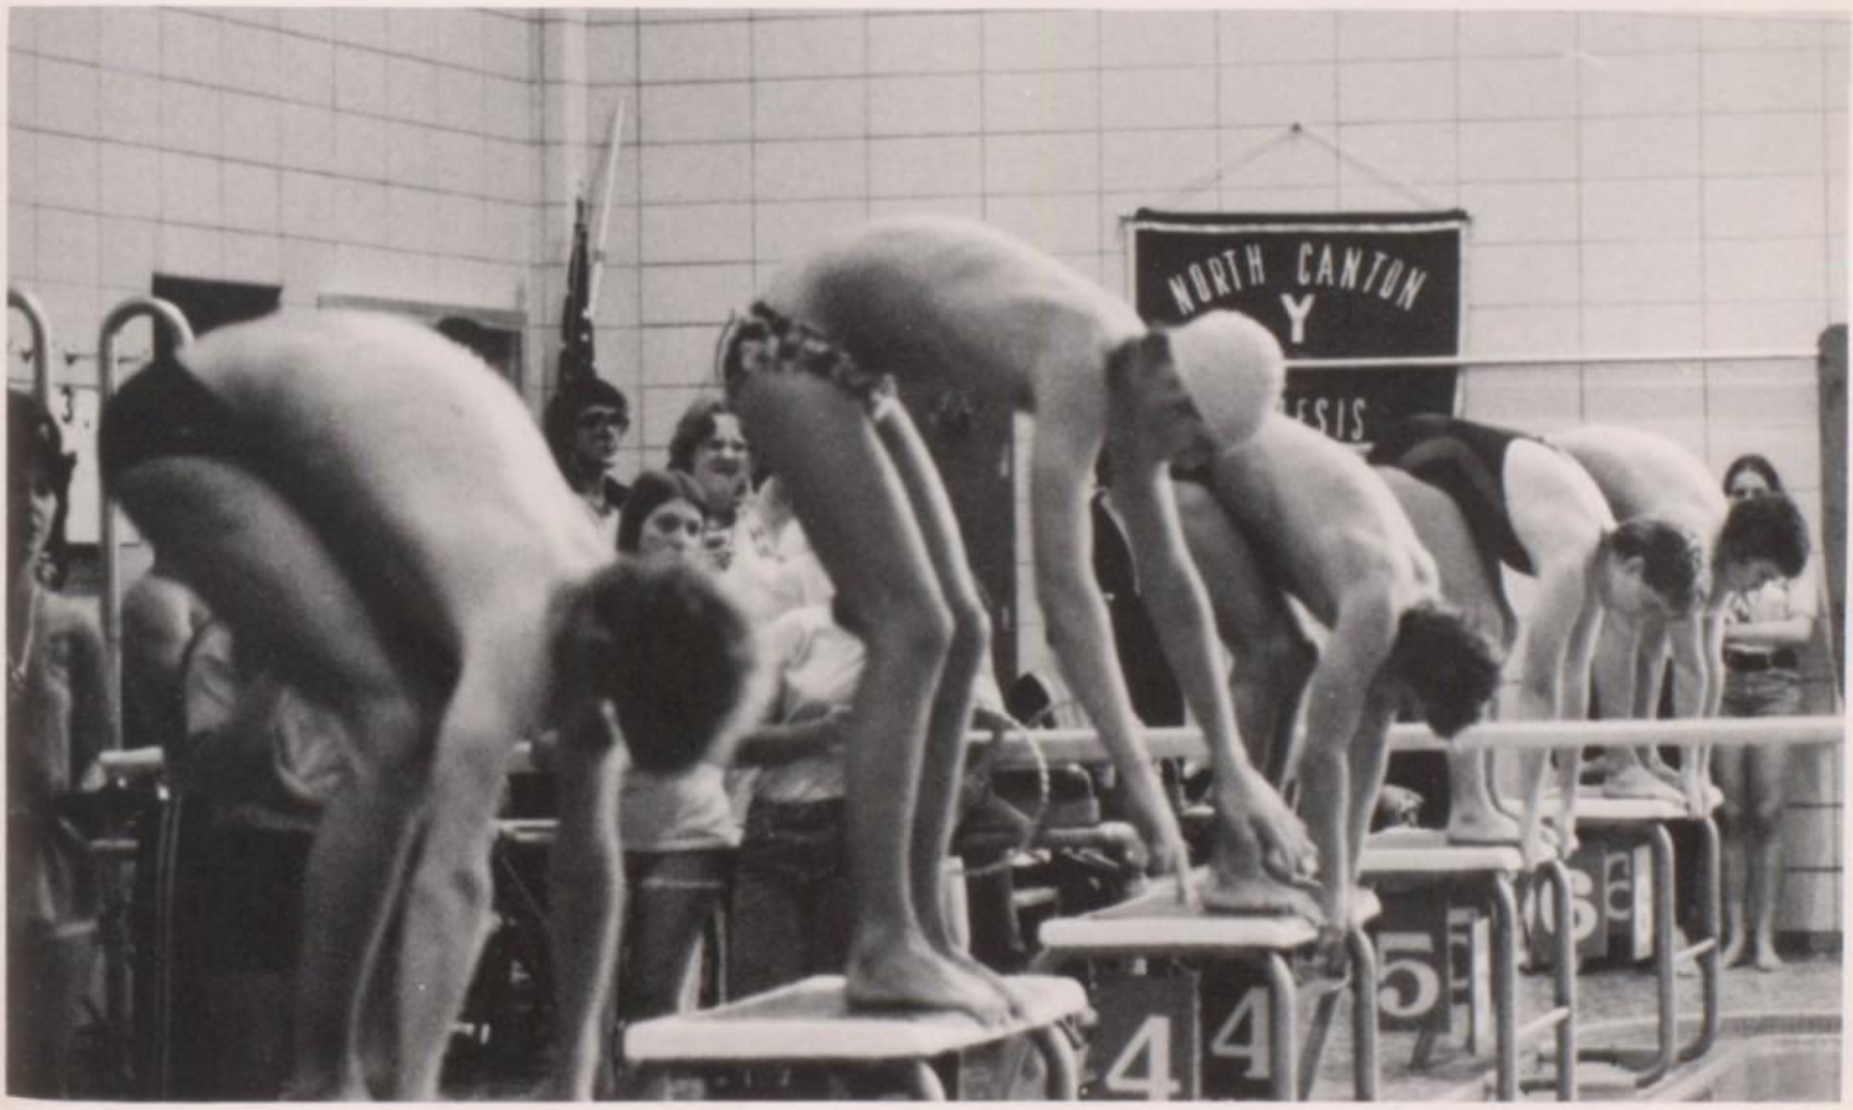


After an invigorating race, junior Russ Chambers shows the relief and pleasure on his face after being victorious. Russ broke school records this year in the 200-free, 200-IM, and the 500-free.

Before an important race, Doug Speicher nervously awaits the starting gun during the McKinley Meet.

The Vikings beat McKinley by a score of 131½-28½ on the way to a 5-6 overall record.

Kurt Renyolds makes a well-executed dive which led to one of Kurt's many first places. Kurt broke the school diving record this year with 219.85 points. Kurt is only a sophomore and will be an asset in coming years.



Hoover and Glenwood swimmers stand on the starting blocks while they anxiously await the gun for the beginning of the race. The Viking swimmers had an overall record of 5-6. They placed second in the Wooster Relays, fourth in the Copley Relays, fifth in the Firestone Relays, and fourth in the Warren Relays.

Runners Set Four Records

The 1974 track team had some outstanding individuals who broke several records. Steve Alguire set a school record in the pole vault with a vault of 13'2½". The mile relay team of Rick Chambers, Mick Mohler, Matt Joliet, and Mike Ensminger set a school record of 3:28.6. In the 880-yard relay, Maurice Jackson, Al Orth, Rick Anderson, and Mike Ensminger tied the school record with a time of 1:32.0. Kim Cooksey, Tim Brown, Steve Alguire, and Bill Sumser broke the record in the 480-yard shuttle hurdles by running it in 62.0. Mr. Gross, who coached the track team said that if the 1975 team develops an attitude of dedication and hard work, and will strive to do better with each performance, they can be a very good team.

Leaping over the hurdles, senior Kim Cooksey (second from left) leads the race. Running close behind Kim is Rick Chambers (fourth from left). Kim wins the race and Rick is second. After many hours of work and practice, Kim and Rick found that it was all worthwhile.

Showing the strength, concentration, and pain it takes to throw the shot putt, Becky Comenscue heaves the shot putt and hopes it will go far enough to win her first place in the meet.

The expression on Maurice Jackson's face shows how painful, agonizing, and tiring the 100-yard dash race is. Maurice was Hoover's best sprinter last year and is expected to help Hoover to many victories this year.

Both Kim and Rick ran the low hurdles and the high hurdles last year for the Vikings.

After a successful jump over the high jump bar, junior Demmie Pepper gently lands on the cushion on the other side of the bar. Demmie has successfully jumped over four and a half feet in the high jump.

During a Cross Country Meet, junior Andy Moock tries to pace himself so that the two-mile race isn't too hard for him to endure. After many weeks of conditioning, Andy was prepared to endure this two-mile course.

Viking Harriers Have A 4-3 Record

The 1974 cross country team, under the coaching of Mr. Sollie, ran in many different kinds of adverse weather conditions to a 4-3 overall record. The Vikings ran their home meets on a two-mile course at Arrowhead Golf Course. The course was long and hard, but the team survived and came out winners.

The outstanding runner on the 1974 cross country team was Ernie Adams. Ernie was named to the All-Federal League Cross Country Team. Other outstanding members of the team were co-captains Greg Sweitzer and Dan Smith, and Mark Tapley.

In the AAA sectional cross country tournament, the Vikings placed sixth out of the 18 teams competing. There will be five returning lettermen on next year's cross country team. They are Ernie Adams, Craig Betz, Andy Moock, and Jim Savage.

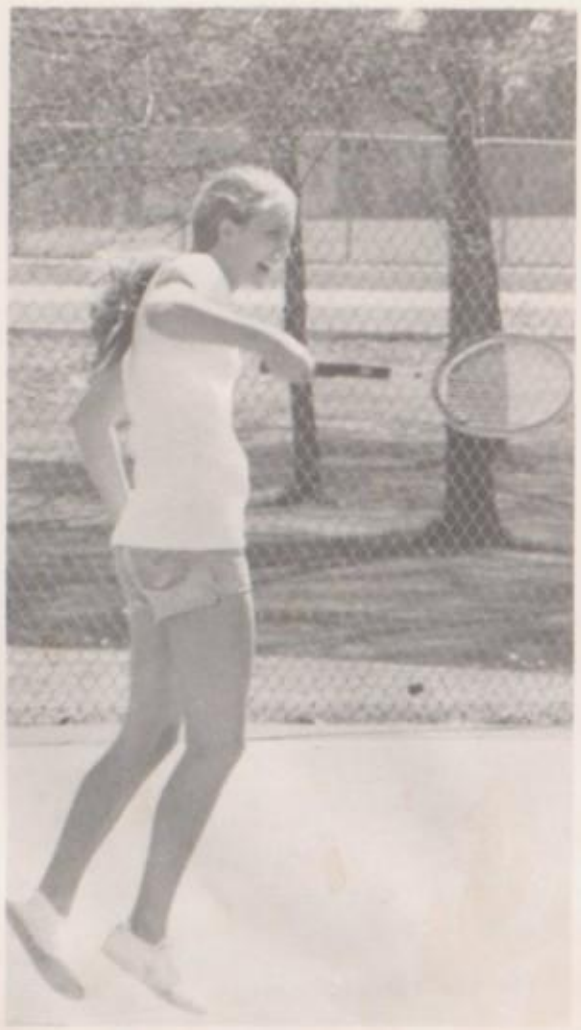
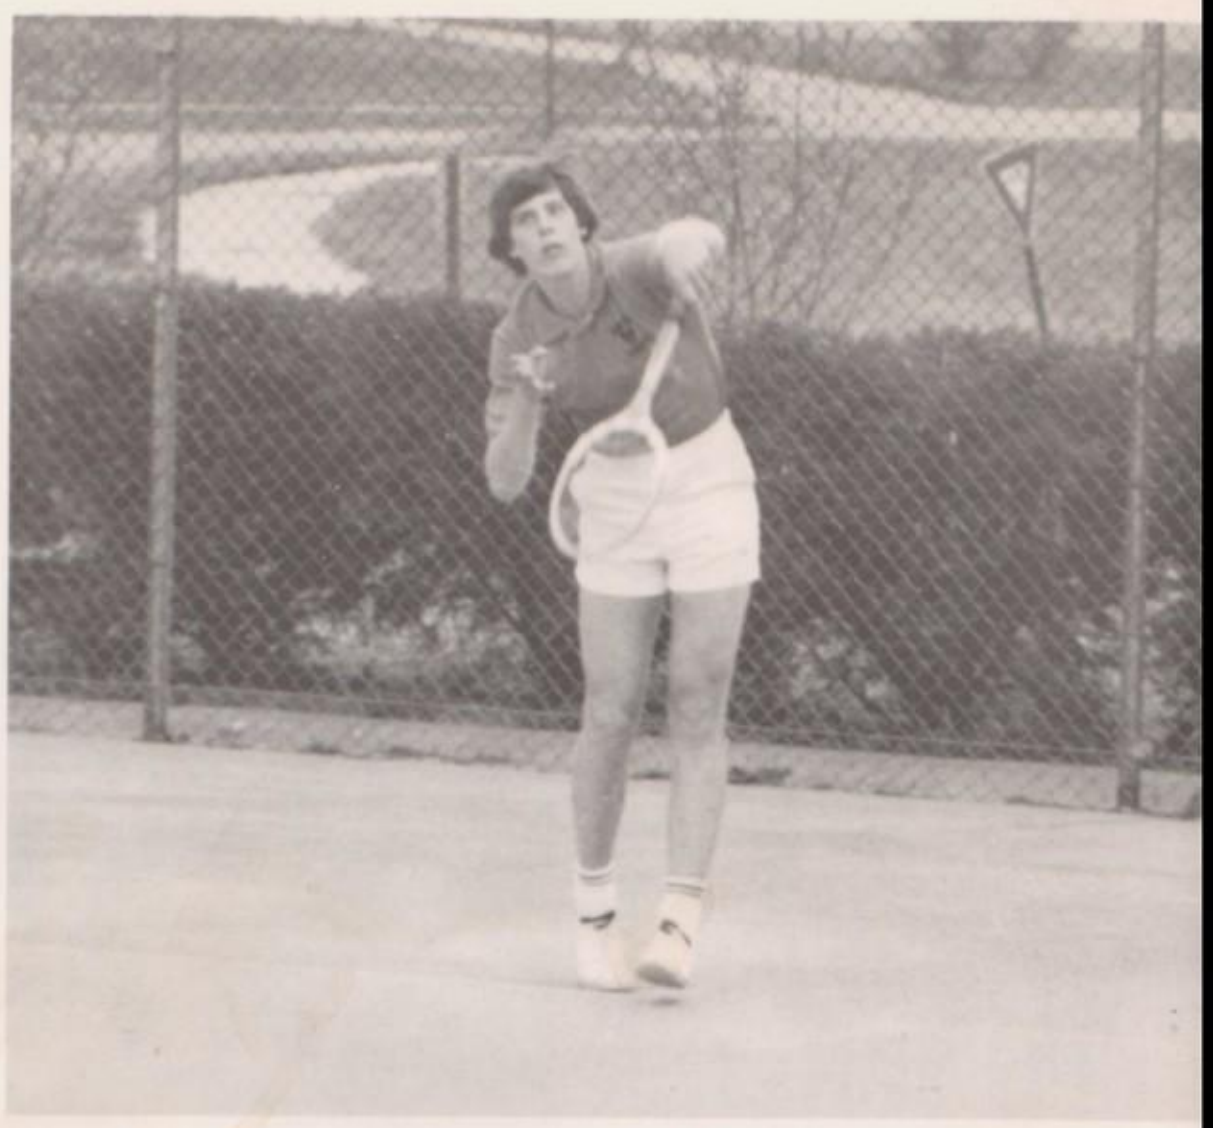
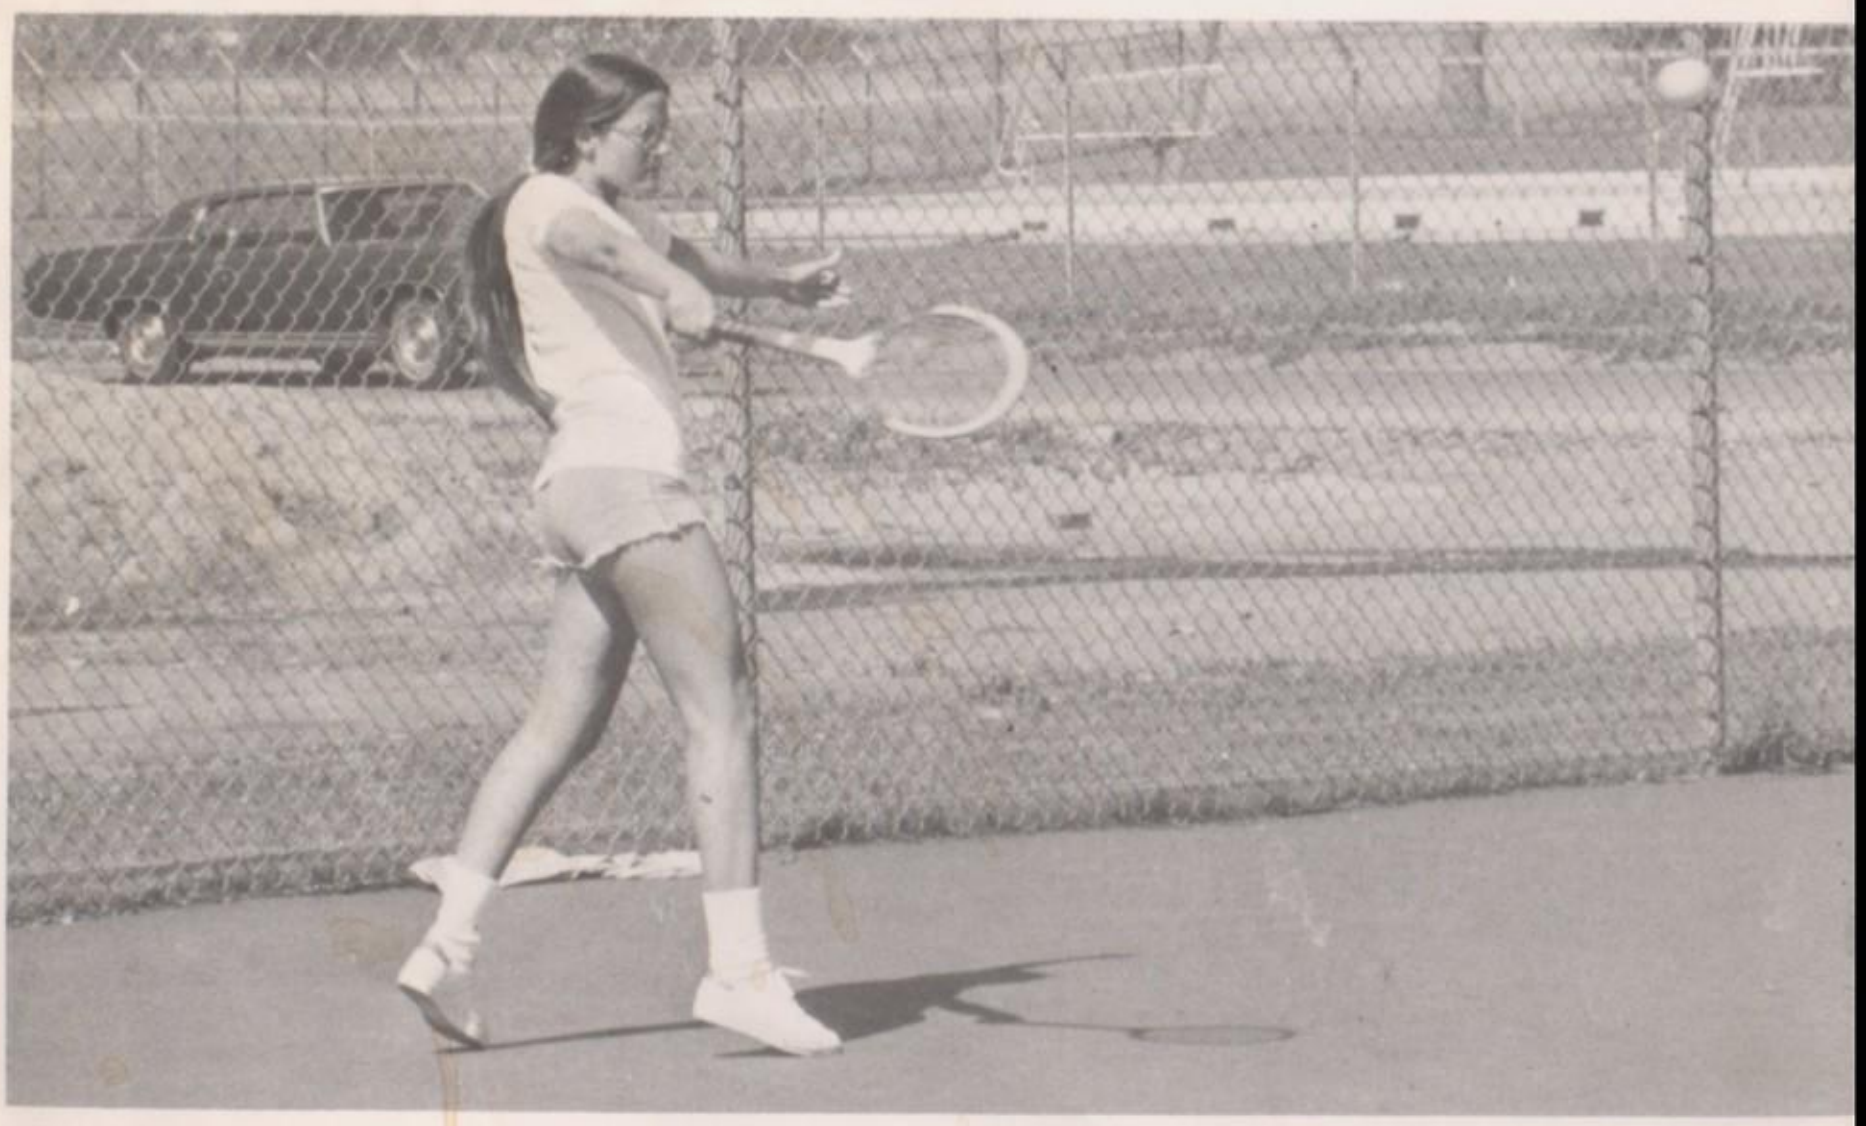
Senior co-captains Dan Smith and Greg Sweitzer warm up before a Cross Country Meet. Both Smith and Sweitzer ran together during the season and tried to help the Vikings to many victories.



After her opponent serves the ball, senior Cheryl Howes demonstrates her tennis skills and appears to be quite satisfied with her return and eagerly awaits the returning volley of her opponent.



Jim Skibbons returns the ball to his opponent with ease. Jim was given the most improved tennis player award and helped the Vikings to a 20-0 record. Jim had a record of 17-1 in dual matches.



After returning a volley with her vigorous backhand, junior Anne Bethel awaits the return. Her precise timing and follow-through result in an excellent volley. Anne has learned the basic fundamentals in handling many difficult shots through many years of hard work and experience.

Tennis Team Obtains Perfect Record

The 1974 tennis team has an excellent 20-0 overall record and an 8-0 Federal League record. This gave the Vikings the Federal League Championship. Mr. Miller said that there was an "excellent individual and team effort to compile a record of 20-0. Every member of the team came through when we had to have the winning points."

Doug Bradshaw was the outstanding member of the team last year. He was the Sectional and District Champion and he qualified for the State Tournament. Phil Powell and Glenn Deane lost in overtime in the consolation match for district qualifying in doubles. Other good members of the team were Andy Moock, Jim Skibbons, Jim Chevitz, Jim Dehn, and Greg McCreery.

The 1975 tennis team will be as strong as last year if the Vikings obtain the same great effort as last year. Hoover has the toughest tennis schedule in Hoover history because they are playing some of the best teams in the state. They include teams from Columbus, Wooster, and Akron.

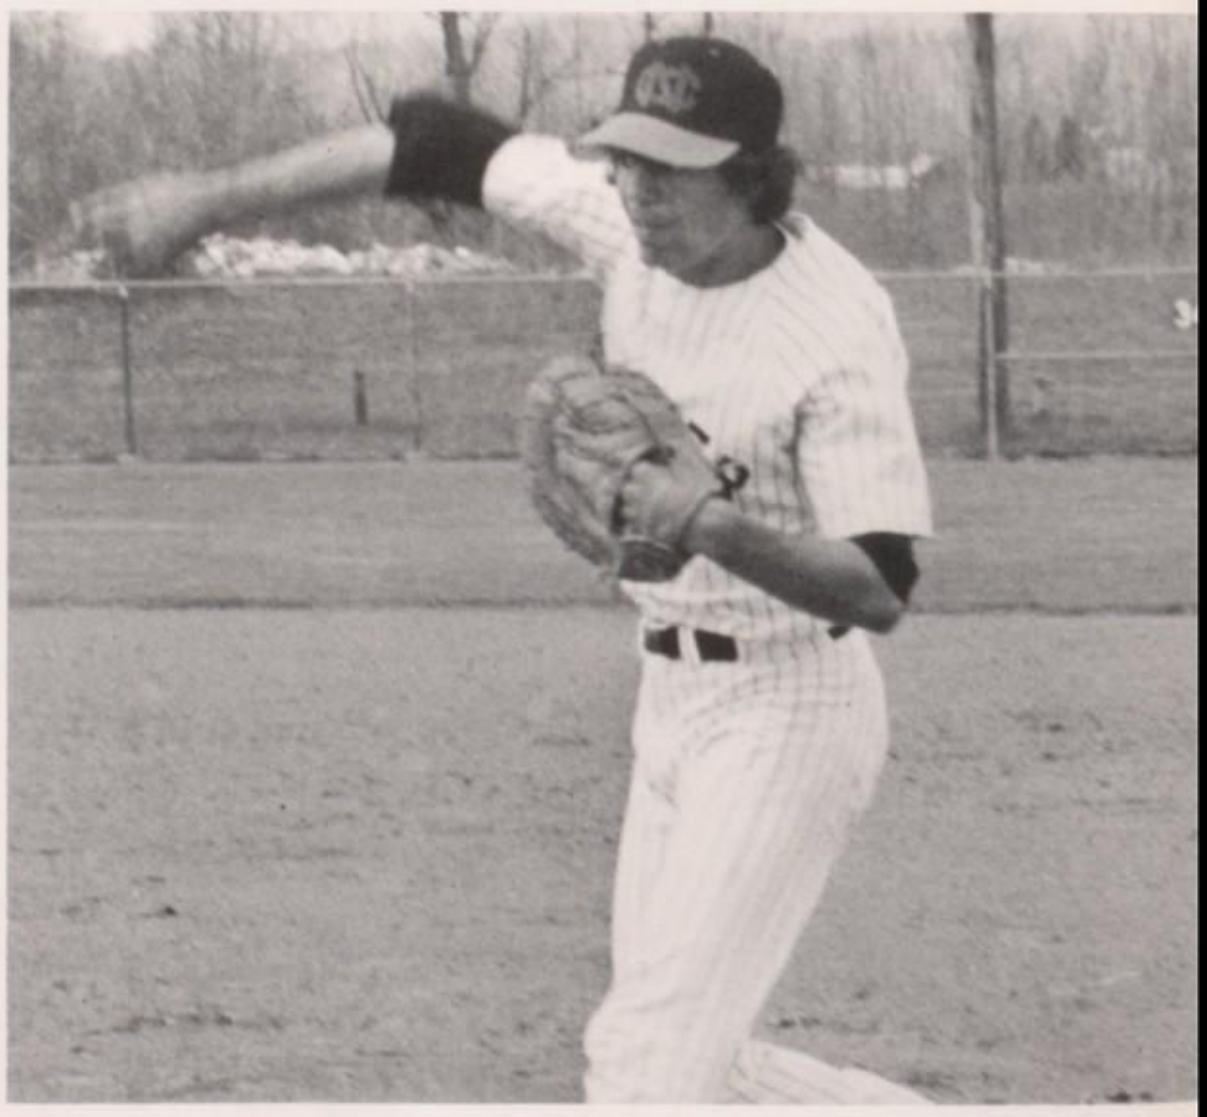
Baseball Team Wins Second Title

Mr. Knisely coached the 1974 Hoover baseball team to their second consecutive Federal League Championship. The Vikings got this championship by beating Marlington in a Federal League playoff tournament. Hoover won this tourney in the first two games of a three game play-off series. The baseball team ended up with an excellent record of 16-6.

Third baseman Mike Lintner, pitcher John Fry, and center fielder Doug Rush were named to the All-Federal League Team. Other outstanding members of the team were Brad Baker, Jeff Chufar, Jeff Logan, and Bob Mitchell. The pitching staff last year did an excellent job in getting victories for Hoover. Standouts were John Fry with a 5-1 record and Bruce Savage who had a record of 6-1.

Looking to the 1975 baseball team, Mr. Knisely said, "We hope to have another good ball club. If our pitching comes through, we will be okay. It will take a lot to win the League Championship again."

Before the baseball game, second baseman Bob Mitchell warms up his throwing arm as he prepares for an important game. Bob, a senior, spent many hours of practice to help the Vikings win the Federal League Championship.



Senior first baseman Brad Baker throws the ball to a teammate after successfully getting an opponent "out" at first base. Brad helped the Vikings win the Federal League Championship in baseball.

Jeff Chufar, a senior, awaits with anticipation the pitch of his teammate throwing on the pitcher's mound. Jeff signals to his pitching teammate and hopes that the pitch will be called a strike by the umpire so that the batter will be out. The catcher has the most difficult job in baseball and receives many bumps.

Junior Ken Norris shows that follow-through and a squarely hit ball are important factors as he dmonstrates his chip shot. Concentration is also a very important factor in golf.

Golf Team Compiles 16-15 Record

The 1974 Golf Team had a 16-15 overall record with a 4-12 record in Federal League competition. This year the golf team was coached by Mr. Pachmayer who was in his second year of coaching.

The outstanding member of the Viking golf team was captain Craig Sherban who had a 40.6 average and was named to the All Federal League Golf Team. Ken Sechler had a 42.7 average and was named to the All Federal League Honorable Mention Golf Team. Another outstanding member of the team was Tim Betz who obtained a 42.5 average.

The Viking golfers placed fifth in the Sectional Match out of 17 participating teams. The team average of the 1974 golf team was 166.9 strokes per match. The low was 151 strokes against Massillon.

The Most Valuable Player for the golf team this year senior Craig Sherban seems pleased with his shot. Craig was also named to the All-Federal League Golf team this year.

The members of the 1974 golf team were Front row: Jim McCreight, Carl Dechiera, Ken Norris, John Cromb, and Jim Reading. Second row: Jack Meola, Scott King, Craig Sherban, Ken Sechler, and Tim Betz. The 1974 golf team had an overall record of 16 wins and 15 losses and were coached by Mr. Pachmayer.

Sophomore Jack Meola practices his putting. Jack participated in the golf matches this year and he was a tremendous asset as he helped the Vikings to many victories against tough opponents.

ORGANIZATIONS

50th Anniversary Is Theme Of Book

This yearbook was the fiftieth edition of an annual in North Canton. To celebrate this anniversary, pictures were used from annuals of other years, gold was used on the cover, and a gold patrons list was compiled. This was the first edition published by Taylor Publishing Company. Taylor sponsored a workshop at Morehead State University in Kentucky. Eleven members of the yearbook staff attended this seminar during June.

An assembly was given to increase the sales of annuals. The assembly featured slides from the fifties and slides from the present day. Because of the assembly, three hundred yearbooks over the last year's amount were purchased. The theme of growth and change was also carried through in the introduction where "The Chambered Nautilus" was used. Dividers included pictures from previous yearbooks.

Discussing deadlines for this year's annual are editor-in-chief Monica Harrison and yearbook adviser Mrs. Pamela Hollinger. This was Mrs. Hollinger's first year as adviser, and it proved to be time-consuming, frustrating, and nerve-racking. Nevertheless, the completion of the book gave her satisfaction.

The academics editor, Amy Lindenberger, a junior, Mary Garcia, a senior, Julie Jolliffe, a senior, and the advertising editor, Paula Blohm, a senior, were working on their layouts in the yearbook work room.

The copy and proof editor Mark Juenemann, a senior, and athletics editor, Melinda Hertler, a junior, were arranging the football photographs which would be used in a layout of athletics in Melinda's section.

Our faculty editor Barb Knepper, a junior, who was planning the location for the pictures to be photographed for her section, which focuses on the photographs and everyday lives of the staff of Hoover.

Index editor, Diane Wilson; business manager, Evelyn Canterbury; and staff members, Denise Lauby and Tammy Miller, are working on their many sections of the yearbook in the crowded yearbook room.

Organizations editor Lucinda Garmus, left, and introduction and closing editor Kathi Herrick, right, are looking through one of the older annuals for techniques and ideas which were used in the past.

Newspaper And Annual Staff Inform The Students

Meeting deadlines regularly seemed to be the thing that most pleased VIKING VIEWS adviser, Mr. Donald Airhart, this year. Each month, staff members scurried about the journalism room amid clicking and clacking typewriters and scattered layouts.

This year's newspaper gave "more well-rounded coverage," said Mr. Airhart. He felt the staff reached "a happy medium between straight news and entertainment." Mr. Airhart was well pleased with Trudy Bogard, the editor-in-chief. "Trudy is about the best editor I've ever coached," praised Mr. Airhart. Journalism students also contributed to the paper.

The VIKING VIEWS staff learns the need of proof-reading in their preparation of the paper. After this task is completed, the copy is given to the staff typist, Terri Mundorff, who prepares the copy for the printer.

Editor-in-chief, Trudy Bogard, along with adviser, Mr. Airhart, search through the files for the necessary material to complete another unique paper. Assisting them is feature editor, Nancy Young.

Mark Snyder and Jeff Chufar, newspaper sports editors, discuss various photographs with VIKING VIEWS staff photographer Kevin Cline in the Journalism room. These staff members contribute articles to the paper.

Working diligently on their writing skills is the second period Journalism class taught by Mr. Donald Airhart. These students hope they will be able to contribute to the VIKING VIEWS along with students from other Journalism classes. These classes provide a large amount of the material for the school newspa-

Paper, Annual Change Publishers

The school newspaper, the VIKING VIEWS, and the yearbook had a common change. Both organizations changed publishers.

The newspaper had difficulty reaching deadlines because the printer was in New England. A great amount of time was required to ship the newspaper, and expenses were extremely high. The present publishing company, East-Canton Printing, seems to be more adequate.

The yearbook staff changed from Paragon to Taylor Publishing in hopes of improved quality in printing.

Language Clubs Give Charitably Of Themselves

The language clubs of Hoover High School were kind to those less fortunate, especially the Spanish club. The Spanish club raised money by means of a bake sale and dues to support a young Mexican boy. Mrs. Yebra, a former Mexican teacher and friend of Miss Gasper, was given a party by the Spanish club. Mrs. Yebra also visited Spanish classes and answered questions about her country.

The Spanish club also attended the International Night in December after an hour of caroling at St. Luke's Home for the Aged. Both activities were enjoyed by the club's members.

Making plans to defeat the Spanish club are Rex Unkefer, Jim Strauch, and Paul Crouser, while Mrs. Ream considers the plan of attack. Other members of the German club anxiously await the next play.

Language Clubs Compete Fiercely

The foreign language clubs maintained a tradition by holding the International Christmas party in December. The German and Spanish clubs played a soccer game early in the fall, which ended in a tie. The hard-fought game was coached by Mrs. Ream of the German club and Miss Gasper, the Spanish club advisor.

The French club presented a play entitled "The Misantrope." This organization also had a display called "The French Cafe" at the Spring Fair.

In a hard-fought battle between the German and Spanish clubs, Paul Crouser hoists his arms to block a goal. The block was successful and held the Spanish club to a tie.

Athletes Attend Conference

Discussions of Christ and an opportunity to compete athletically in a friendly game of some sort make the Hoover High School huddle "one of the largest huddles in Stark County," said John Coyle, vice-president of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes (FCA). The organization consists of athletes and coaches who gather to discuss the Bible and how Christ affects their lives and sports. The athletes also raise money to send kids to the National Conference of FCA.

"It's hard to describe," said the vice-president John Coyle, "it's really great." Professional and collegiate athletes join several thousand boys annually to give personal testimony of how Christ has affected their lives. The boys are also grouped in huddles numbering about forty to discuss the Bible and compete in various sports in the "Dogpatch Olympics." Jeff Chufar is treasurer of the group.

Booster Club Shows Spirit In More Ways Than Ever

Change seemed to be the theme of the Booster Club this year. The usual pizza party, dances, and caravans to away games were all continued, but some new plans have entered the Booster Club's calendar.

The "Beat Louisville" rally, bonfire, and parade were held over from last year, and they will probably become a tradition because of their success. This year the Booster Club sponsored the Viking mascot, something never done before. In other years the mascot had to raise money for the Viking costume, but the Booster Club helped financially this year.

Joe Grady seemed most pleased with the Winter Homecoming. As president, he directed the activities of the dance with a theme of the "Roaring Twenties." For the first time, a major dance was held outside of the school at the K of C hall.

Dress Code Is Revised As The Student Council Helps

"In general, we would like to accomplish anything that would provide students with a more enjoyable school life," said Doug Myers, Student Council president. The Student Council worked for a revision of the dress code by the Board of Education so that seniors with longer hair would be able to have their pictures in the yearbook. Plans were to lower the rate of credit for exams from one-fourth to one-seventh. Student Council would also like to have dances and better assemblies.

Peggy Rowan, Phyllis Preston, and Rachel Rife pretend to huddle together, remembering cold mornings while waiting for the bus in front of the school to take them to debate tournaments.

Debate Team And Forensic League Are Active

The Debate team and the National Forensic League worked together for a fair showing in their weekly tournaments. Besides tournaments, these organizations ran the concession stands at the home basketball games. The annual banquet was held at the end of the year.

These organizations teamed up to give the morning announcements on WVHS. Mr. Brockett, speech and English teacher, advises the groups.

The other members are Mark Tapley, Kevin Zumkehr, Scott Parks, Paul Durbin, Doug Davidson, Jeff Seibert, and Eric Cornish.

Quill And Scroll Awards Are Given To Many Students

Quill and Scroll held their annual initiation ceremony in February. Special awards were presented to Quill and Scroll members Paula Blohm, Trudy Bogard, and Nancy Young for their extraordinary efforts. Inducted into Quill and Scroll that evening were Monica Harrison, Polly Owens, Nancy Laskowski, Barb Knepper, Diane Wilson, Chris Herrick, and Kathi Herrick from the annual. Also inducted from the newspaper were Jan Gardner, Brenda Grable, Ann Griesinger, Sue Savage, Phyllis Preston, Lorie Jones, Amy McLinden, Linda Struglinski, and Mary Ward. Honor keys were received by Amy Lindenberger, Rachel Rife, Melinda Hertler, Pam Kobelt, Cathy Gray, Barb Harris, and Missy Ingold for the annual, and Liz Curley, Becky Pool, Kevin Cline, Cindi Harris, Mark Snyder, Mike Bishop, Stacy McMaster, and Helen Cowles. Inductees were chosen by Mrs. Hollinger and Mr. Airhart.

Mr. Richard McLinden spoke at the Quill and Scroll banquet about various problems of working on a newspaper, and how it enables him to meet different people in a variety of newsworthy situations in his work.

A menu of sloppy Joes, potato chips, and cookies were eaten by the journalism classes, the newspaper staff and the annual staff at the Quill and Scroll Banquet which was held at the Junior High Cafeteria in February.

Twenty-nine members of the Hoover Math-Science Club attended a field trip to the Diamond Portland limestone quarries, along with Mr. Paul Hobe and Mr. Robert Dobson on November 9. Mr. Hobe and Mr. Dobson teach science at Hoover. The field trip was guided by Dr. Rice, who has guided the Math-Science Club in the past.

Math and Home Ec. Clubs Gain Useful Knowledge

The Math-Science Club has been busy as usual, with an activity to attend each month. Lectures on "Criminalities," "Physical Origins of Color," and "Hypnosis" were given, the latter by Mr. Maxey. In November, students took a field trip to the Diamond Portland limestone quarries. Lectures on "New Forms of Energy," by Mr. Ream, and "Procedures Used in a Funeral Parlor" are planned for the future. Mr. Paul Hobe, advisor of the Math-Science Club said about the Club, "It's a way for students to learn things that wouldn't be discussed in the classroom." Math-Science Club exposes those students who are interested in science careers to the variety of fields open to them. This gives them a greater background when they face the task of chosing a specialized field.

The Medical Arts Club held a Halloween party for retarded children, and made party favors and decorations for the senior citizens at the Windsor Nursing Home on Valentine's Day.

The Home Economics Club had two visits from the Coty Cosmetic Company, and on one visit Sue Woolslayer was made up by the company representative. The Home Economics Club is also planning a trip to the Dalton Clothing Factory. The annual banquet and a fashion show are planned in the near future of 1975.

Home Economics Club officers are, from left to right: Julie Mathie, president; Marlene Gross, vice-president; Mary Carpenter, secretary; and Sandy Beggs, treasurer, sitting in the front of the high school. The Home Economics Club was busy with many various activities this year as it has been in recent years.

Cheryl Stroup and Amy Hill, members of the Home Economics Club, are sampling jellies, jams, and preserves that were made by the Home Economics classes as one of their many interesting classroom projects.

Distributive Education Wins Various Awards

DECA has had a good year. Hoover High's section of DECA has won the district trophy for the second time in a row, this time by a landslide victory.

Trophy winners were: Kurt Braden, first in "petroleum industry"; Doug Bradshaw, first in "public speaking"; Roger Miller, first in "free enterprise"; Lori Fulk, first in "business vocabulary"; Judy Cornelius, second in "food industry"; Maria Shiltz, second in "radio advertising"; Diane Babich, second in "investments"; Kathy Keiser, third in "food industry"; and Terry Dollard, second in "income tax."

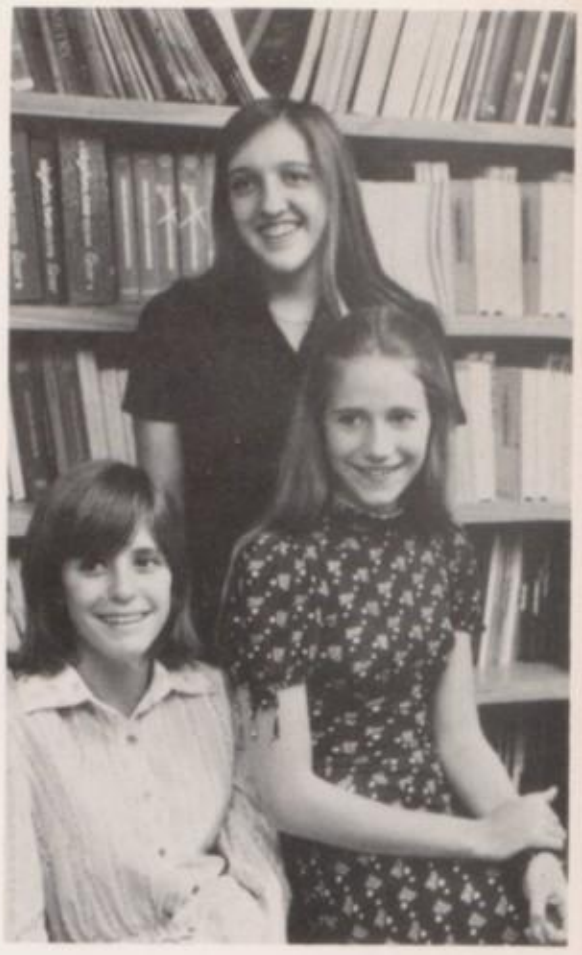
Students Informed By Entertaining Announcements

The school radio station, WVHS, has been helping to make the morning announcements interesting for several years. The organization, which is advised by Mr. Thomas Brockett, is made up of speech students and uses creative methods to keep the school body informed.

WVHS also makes announcements during lunch, and plays music for the students' pleasure. Advertisements for group activities are put together by the WVHS team to raise money also.

Vicki Viscounte and Susan Vandayburg receive messages and sort attendance cards in the attendance office. These are a few of the many helps to Mrs. Cline that office aids do every day in the attendance office.



Mary Oby, sitting, Debbie Blair, sitting on arm of chair, and Valerie Ewing, standing, are aides in the superintendent's office, Dr. Brandau. They perform deeds to help the secretaries in the offices.

Roxanne Combs, sitting, and Pam Cook search through the guidance office's records to find the schedule of a particular student. This duty is performed often by guidance office aids in order to deliver messages.

Marty Martin, Steve Warren, and Roxanne Combs, from left to right, are working with the taping equipment of WVHS, in order to make an advertisement to be aired in the future over the a.m. homeroom announcements.

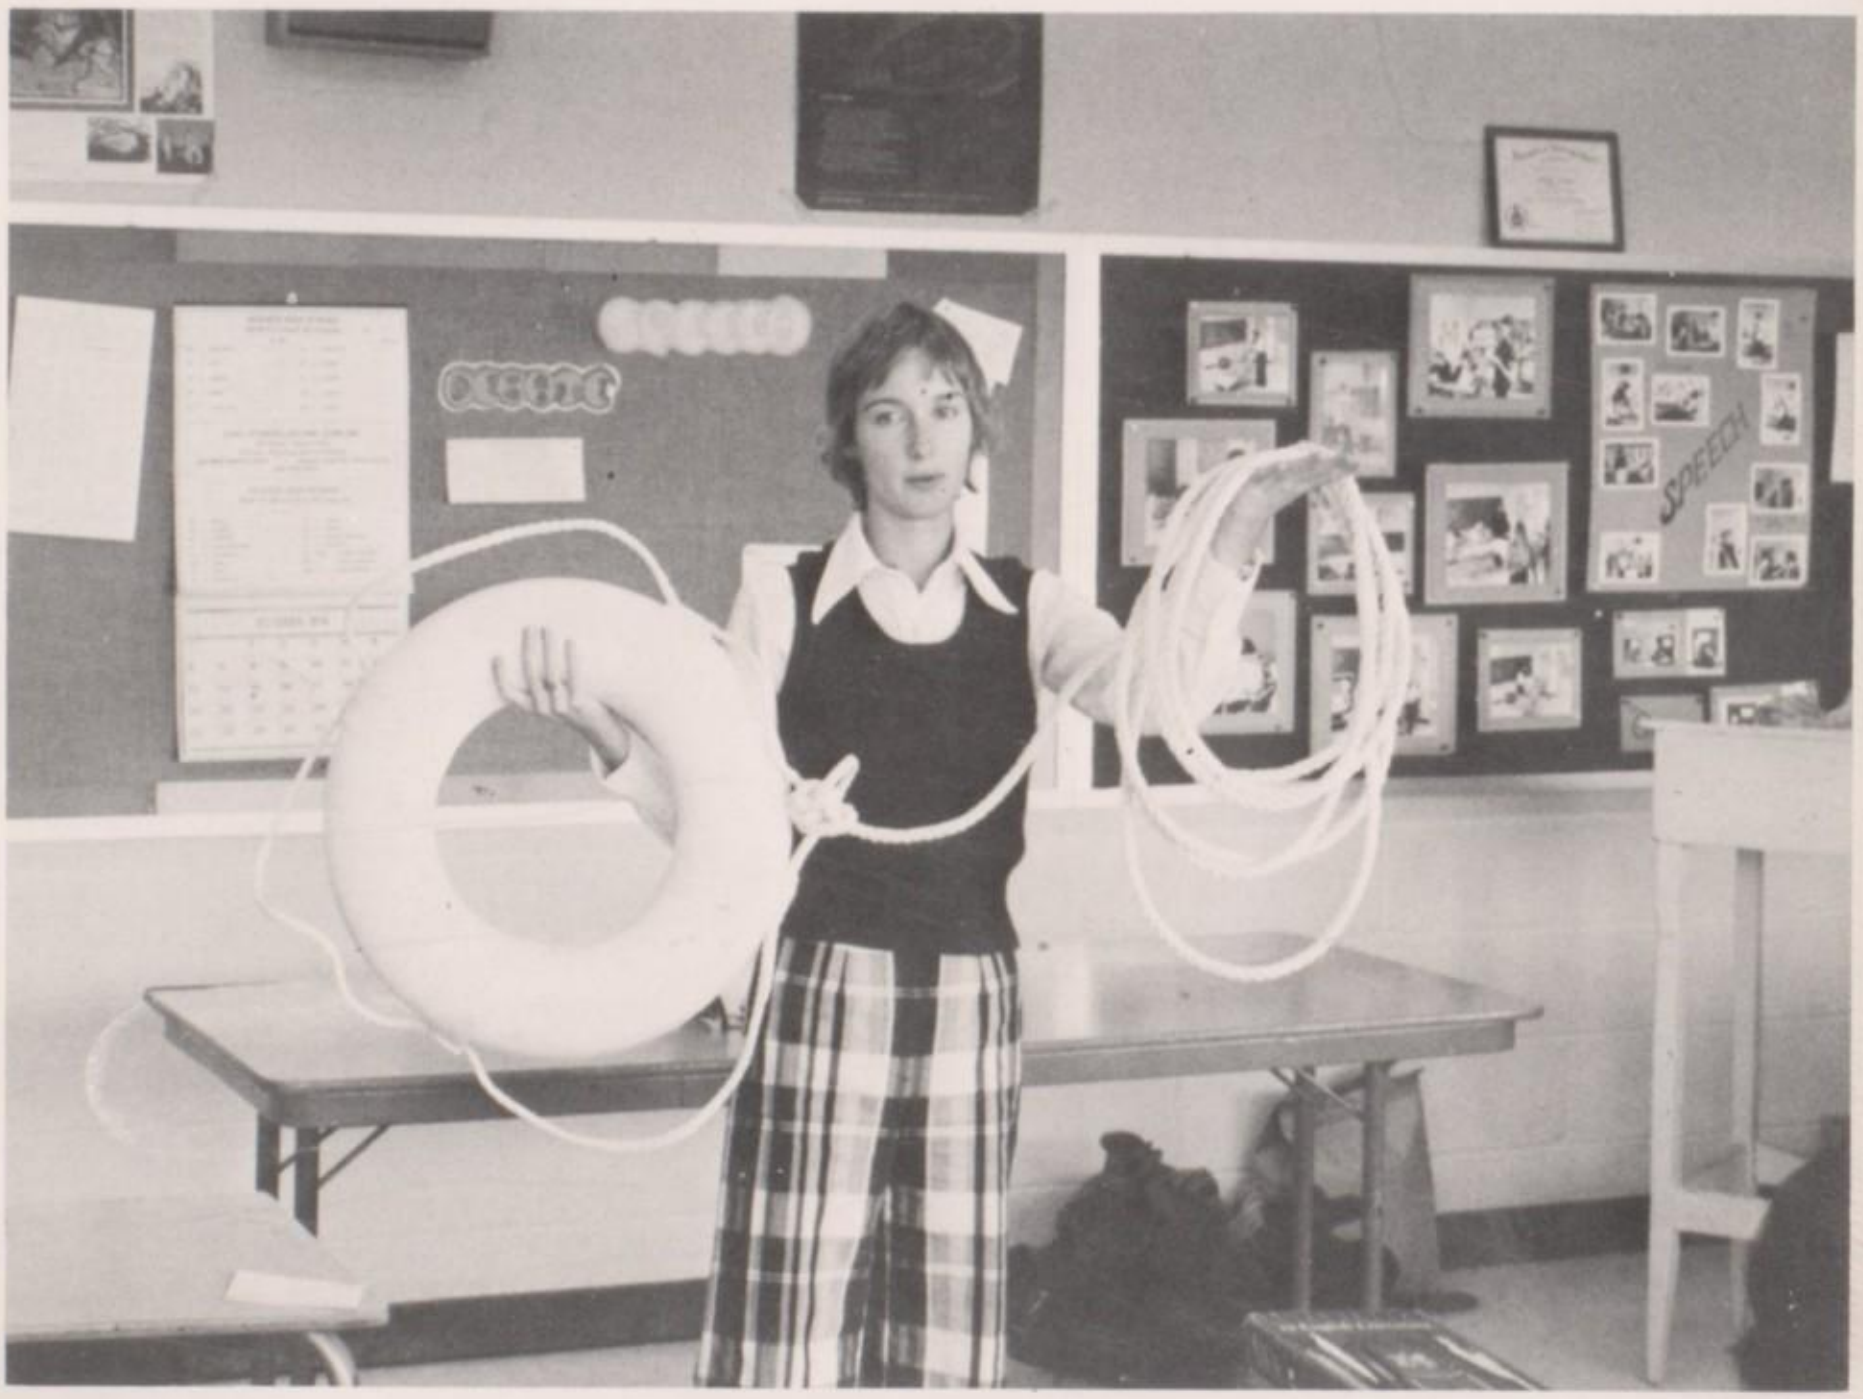
ACADEMICS

Mrs. Hollinger's sixth period class including Teri Johnson, Emily Cantini, and Beth Haas engage in a friendly class discussion in Sophomore English class. Participation makes class more exciting.



"How to Save a Drowning Person" is demonstrated by Sue Savage in Mr. Brockett's seventh period Speech class. This year's enthusiastic Speech students presented many imaginative and amusing demonstration speeches featuring topics ranging anywhere from washing hair to making a pizza.

Mr. Airhart patiently explains to Jim Dragomire the corrections on a journalism assignment. All Journalism students are asked to contribute to the "Viking Views" newspaper as part of the class.

Teaching Debuts Made By Campfield And Scourfield

Two new faculty members were added to the English department this year. Both Mrs. Stephanie Scourfield and Mr. Eric Campfield have favorable things to say about their new positions as English teachers at Hoover High School. Mr. Campfield, who teaches sophomore English, tells us that he has been enjoying the job very much and adds that he has discovered that "kids are a lot brighter today than I thought they were." Mrs. Scourfield is occupied with teaching junior English this year. Surprisingly young-looking, she is in her fifth year of teaching and her third job. Cheerfully she professes to be extremely happy with the age group which she is teaching and offers her observation that juniors, as a group, are bright and cooperative. "They are still excited about new knowledge, but they haven't the unbounded enthusiasm that the underclassmen may show," she smiles. Both Mr. Campfield and Mrs. Scourfield are young and refreshing new faces on our staff.

Bill Schreckengost does research for his potential topic for a term paper as an assignment for composition class in senior English. Preparation for Independent Study is part of the aim of this class.

"Who knows what evil lurks in the hearts of men." Mr. Campfield and his sophomore English class find out as they listen to "The Shadow" on the monthly Radio Mystery day, Mr. Campfield's successful new idea.

Calculators Save Time And Work

Several years ago nearly every high school student purchased a slide rule from the school. Since then, things have changed a bit. Students still need some type of instrument to help them determine square roots, sines, cosines, tangents and other difficult mathematical functions, but now they are turning to calculators for their assistance. Through the Math department a student is now able to purchase a pocket calculator at approximately eighty dollars, which will do as much and more than his brother's slide rule would do. The calculators save more time and work than the slide rules and are rapidly dropping in price, making them more practical.

Dave Burch is the smiling recipient of a modern method of teaching in geometry classes. Geometric models offer the student a more tangible way of looking at an abstract subject and also make the subject more fun.

This Olivetti-Underwood programmable computer is one of the more modern facets of the Math department. The machine saves students time and eliminates monotonous calculations that were once handwritten.

all necessary parts of learning how to use a slide rule properly. Good eyesight and a steady hand may also be useful to the student trying to master the technique of using this very delicate instrument.

As the world becomes more electronically-minded, electronic calculators begin to find their place in the classroom. These calculators have begun eliminating the need for the slide rule since many of them, as the one being used here by Ted Boller, can do as much and more than the best slide rule is able to do.

Dr. Koch Finds First Year Of Job Time-Consuming

Does the title "Physics Teacher" bring to your mind an old, white-haired, withdrawn and eccentric old man? If so, you must not have met our new physics teacher, Dr. Koch. Far from withdrawn or old, he encourages and welcomes his and any other students to visit him after school whether it be for an explanation of the latest physics assignment or to discuss the price of tea in Turkey. Dr. Koch is the product of an extensive education having received his Bachelor's, Master's, C.A.S. and Ph.D. Having taught at both public and private schools, he states that Hoover students are much more dedicated than students of most public schools. When asked how he spends his spare time, the busy physics teacher only replies that spare time is non-existent.

Scott Texter carefully begins one of the first chemistry lab activities — the bending and cutting of glass. In this picture he heats a glass tube over a bunsen burner and gently pulls it from both ends.

After the tube has sufficiently cooled, Scott uses a metal glass file to cut the tubing at its thinnest point. Patience and just the right touch are needed for this step as many chemistry students recall.

Scott's patience is rewarded as he views the professional-looking product of his endeavors. This is an implement that will be used often during the busy months to come in chemistry lab!

Many revisions have been made in the American History courses. American History must be taken by all eleventh grade students, but now a student can choose one of three different courses. For students involved in vocational studies, a combination history and government course is offered. Those students who want a general survey of American History may take a course which stresses themes of history. One idea or theme is pursued from its origin to its fulfillment before another is studied. The third course offered is one formed to fit the needs of the student taking college preparatory courses. This course stresses nine-week studies in four primary areas: a general survey from the years 1607 to 1876, a discussion of politics and personalities with a focus on the years from 1876 to 1974, a study of economics and urbanization from 1876 to 1974, and a look at American values.

Language Students Travel And Correspond With Foreigners

Mrs. Ream briefs her German class about a language tape which they are about to hear. The langauge tapes, which are used in all the modern language courses, greatly aid the student in developing pronunciation.

Several Spanish students traveled to Mexico this past summer, and ten French students will voyage to France this summer. The Spanish students flew from Cleveland to Mexico for an eleven-day trip which took place from June 29th to July 9th. While in Mexico, the group visited the pyramids of Teotihuacon and were able to observe some bullfights and a game of Jai Lai. The French students will fly from New York to Paris for a fifty-four day excursion taking place throughout most of June, July and August. Among the high points of this trip will be a tour of Paris, a bicycle trip through the Loire River Valley, and a visit to Domremy, the hometown of Joan of Arc. The group will spend most of their nights in inexpensive youth hostels throughout France. Due to the excessive amount of bicycling they will be doing, the students, along with Mr. Spaulding, will take biking trips in the spring in order to be better prepared.

The German classes have begun corresponding as a whole with students in Germany who are learning to speak English. The penpals exchange photographs, musical recordings, and other items of interest.

Wendy Weigel and Amy Lindenberger work on preparing the agenda for the trip to France Mr. Spaulding will make this summer with ten French students. The trip will last approximately fifty-four days.

Pam Blackshore and Aristotle Maragas make their acting debut in a Spanish drama which they wrote themselves. The play, performed before their Spanish class, was to be written and performed entirely in Spanish.

The German students have their pictures taken by Chris Herrick in order that they may send their German penpals a picture of an average American classroom and, at the same time, individual pictures as well.

Scott Texter seeks the assistance of a German dictionary in writing a letter to a German penpal. The German classes, as a whole, correspond with a group of students living in Germany who are learning Engish.

The penpals exchange photographs and information about themselves and their ways of living.

Mr. Palmer feels that lettering is a very necessary part of art education and that it should be taught in an interesting way. The lettering project that Connie Kleyn is doing here involves choosing a favorite phrase and writing it in Old English-style printing on tracing paper scorched to look like parchment.

Randy Torrence takes a break from his work on a silk screen project. Art IV students are taught the process of silk screening and are given the assignment of making stationery and Christmas cards with this technique.

Co-chairmen of this year's prom decorating committee, Lee Kuhne and Amy Lindenberger make initial plans for the decorations of the upcoming prom. A third co-chairman, Amy Pleasant, is not pictured.

Changes Made In Course To Create Student Interest

Mr. Weber, an art teacher at Hoover for only the second year, has made some interesting changes in his teaching format. First and second year art are both taught by Mr. Weber, and his students are getting the opportunity to do many different things this year. The art students are learning a wide range of skills in leatherworking, including how to cut, hand tool, dye, color, and design in leather, and the leathercraft project to be done is more or less up to the individual. They can make such things as purses, belts, moccasins, or even saddles. The art classes are also being taught the process of tye-dyeing. Every known method of cloth dyeing is learned, and in addition the students are given the opportunity to experiment with their own creative inventions. The students are also provided with a book which contains ideas about dyeing and examples of dyeing from all over the world.

Kelly Miller, a third-year art student, pauses for a moment before continuing work on her first oil painting. The work of the Art III students consists mainly of oil painting as they paint three pictures in this year.

Girls' Glee Club Sings, Phys. Ed. Students Enjoy Activities

This year, for the first time in the history of our school, the Girls' Glee Club presented its very own musical production, an operetta entitled "The Beauty Contest." A success in the eyes of the audience, director, and cast, the show was performed during the annual fall concert in the Hoover High School auditorium. Most of the girls tremendously enjoyed working on the show and recommend that the performance of an operetta be made a tradition by the Glee Club. Apparently Mr. Howes, the director, shares the view of his girls, as he plans to do another operetta next year.

As always, Phys. Ed. students this year enjoyed a widely varied and well-rounded year in gym class. Girls' classes were instructed in such things as volleyball, basketball, bowling, gymnastics, and self-defense, while the boys engaged in such sports as football, soccer, rugby and basketball to name a few. The year was wrapped up with the annual physical fitness tests with awards for many of the hard-working students. On the other side of town, swimming classes continued to experience a different, but just as rigorous, type of activity at the North Canton YMCA. Mr. Morrison supervises these swim classes.

Several of the Hi-Lows, Richard Kirk, Laurie Feldscher, Scott Mackall, Dave Mullins and Dawn Lozich, combine suave new gestures with their singing in trying to give character and style to their musical acts.

Football is taught in the boys' physical education classes in order that all the boys, not only those who make the school team, can have the fun of participating in this sport and learning the necessary skills.

New COE Provides Secretarial Students With Jobs

Lynn Clayton gets practice in working with one of the business machines used in secretarial classes. Many skills that the secretarial students are learning will be useful in helping them find well-paying jobs.

New on the secretarial-clerical scene is the Cooperative Office Education, or COE program. Involving only seniors in high school, the program coordinates two periods daily of office practices, typing and business machines to what will be done on the job. Afternoons are spent on-the-job at places of employment which have been acquired through the school.

Students enrolled in COE earn 1½ credits for the two daily class periods and 2 credits for daily job time. Students can enroll in the program by applying in the spring when scheduling takes place. Only those who will be seniors the following year may sign up for application and the required interview. Some of the participants in our COE have been Dansizen & Associates, North Canton City Hall, and the Medical Clinic to name a few. Mrs. Linda Miller, director of the program, says that it is a lot of fun and that she is very pleased with its outcome this year.

Jame Riffle gives a shorthand dictation to a fellow secretarial student. Secretarial students not only learn to type quickly and accurately, but are also taught office skills needed for a secretarial job.

Medical Course Gets Good Response From Students

Diversified Health Occupations, a new course that has been added to Vocational Education, is taught by Mrs. Van Gilder. The course is a two-year program for both boys and girls. In their junior year, students spend three periods in laboratory, where they learn skills ranging from taking blood pressure to running blood tests, and one period in a related class. In this related class they are taught body structure and disease conditions. During the senior year students have two related class periods and go into more depth in their area of interest, chosen from the wide variety of health areas covered. The students receive on-the-job training. The class takes frequent field trips to various health facilities, such as the North Canton Medical Clinic and Aultman Hospital. In class, the students are required to wear white lab coats and name pins. Three texts are used and the course includes a supply of much medical equipment which will be expanded when the course is moved to the new facilities at the Hoover North Campus. The students took the teachers' blood pressures and helped with their tuberculin tests.

Much Planning Goes Into Our Curriculum

Dr. James E. Brandau, Superintendent of the North Canton School System, is ably assisted by Mr. Dwain Sheffer as Director of Curriculum and C. Maurice Oatley as Director of Business Affairs. Together they make many decisions critical to the students of North Canton and plan methods of implementing their ideas. With our uncertain economy at present, much foresight is required of them.

Isue Plans For Coming Year During Vacation

Mr. Theodore Isue devoted most of his vacation time last summer preparing for the coming 1974-75 school year. The students appreciate the interesting and unique assemblies he has arranged for their enjoyment throughout the school year. Even though his duties as principal of Hoover High School do not leave him with many free moments, he finds time to indulge in his hobbies of gardening and, of course, reading. Mr. Isue has been with the North Canton School System for five years. This is his second year as Hoover's principal.

Mr. Mario Mattachione has been acting as advisor to the Student Council. He is also serving on the mathematics curriculum committee in addition to performing his regular duties as assistant principal at Hoover High School. Mr. Mattachione is interested in chess as one of his hobbies. He is completing his tenth year teaching in this school system. During vacation he attended summer school at Kent State University.

A Grateful "Well-Done" For Employees

A few words of thanks are well deserved by the personnel in the school lunchroom. It is not easy to prepare lunches which are nutritional, wholesome, and appetizing every school day.

Many favorable comments are heard from visitors at school sports events about the fine condition of the Viking turf. Mr. Miller and assistants can be proud of the appearance of the Hoover Stadium, as all the Viking fans are.

Appreciation is due also to the custodial staff at the school who take such care to ensure the safety and comfort of the students and faculty of Hoover High School.

These women found it increasingly difficult to prepare well-balanced meals in an age of inflationary prices.

Foreign Travels Enhance Teachers' Vacations

Hoover's foreign language teachers are Mr. Marchand, who teaches Latin and English this year. He had an interesting trip to Virginia last summer where he visited Monticello and other historical sites.

Mrs. Ream is German Club sponsor and serves on the foreign language committee as well as teaching her classes.

Mrs. Schriever is in her sixth year at Hoover High. She teaches Spanish I, II, and IV.

Miss Gasper, our Spanish teacher, toured Mexico with a student group last summer.

Mr. Rex Spaulding has traveled extensively in France giving him an opportunity to use his skill first-hand. He plans a bike tour of France next summer, too.

Kieffer Advises Junior Class At Hoover High

Mr. Kieffer has been at Hoover ten years and is junior class advisor this year. He enjoys fishing and traveling and took a trip to Rice Lake, Canada to pursue his hobby.

Mr. Bates enjoys golf, swimming, and traveling and toured the central U.S. on his vacation as well as attending the Nat'l Convention of the American Legion in Miami, Fla.

Mrs. Julia Soffel came to Hoover in December to teach American History following Mrs. Nancy Kopka's resignation. She has been a substitute teacher for ten years. Her hobbies are plants, animals, and knitting.

Hertler And Lowe Outstanding In Their Fields

Coach Don Hertler piloted the Vikings to another winning season this year adding to his outstanding record. He has been elected President of the Stark County Coaches Association. His 22 years of experience will enable him to be of great service in this office. Mr. Hertler served as Assistant Director of the North-South All-Star Football Game at the close of the season.

Miss Marcia Lowe traveled to Michigan and Ohio State Univ. with the cheerleaders last summer coaching them to an excellent record as usual.

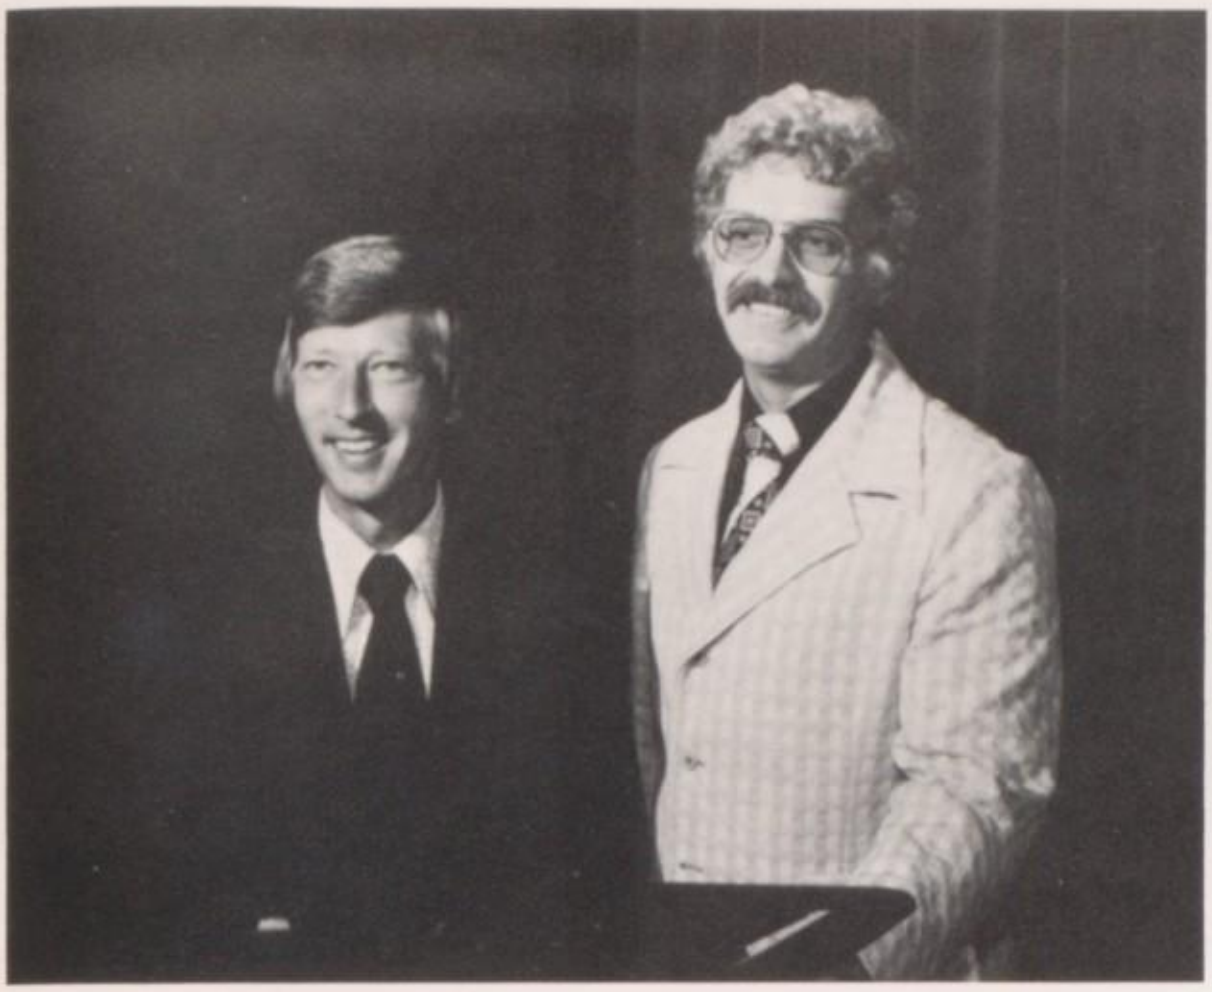
Weber Tours U.S. With International Exchange Students



Mr. Weber's work with the Rotary International Exchange Students last summer kept him busy when he chaperoned forty-four Rotary Exchange Students from fourteen different countries on a clockwise tour of the United States. The trip lasted three weeks and was a wonderful experience for all involved. He even found time to make a brief trip to Florida later in the summer. Mr. Weber is active in Stark County Power Squadron as well.

In addition to teaching his art classes, Mr. Palmer has been acting as Supervisor for the decorations of the Prom and Homecoming dances. He also has served as chairman for the Spring Fair and acts as Department Chairman for the North Canton Little Art Gallery.

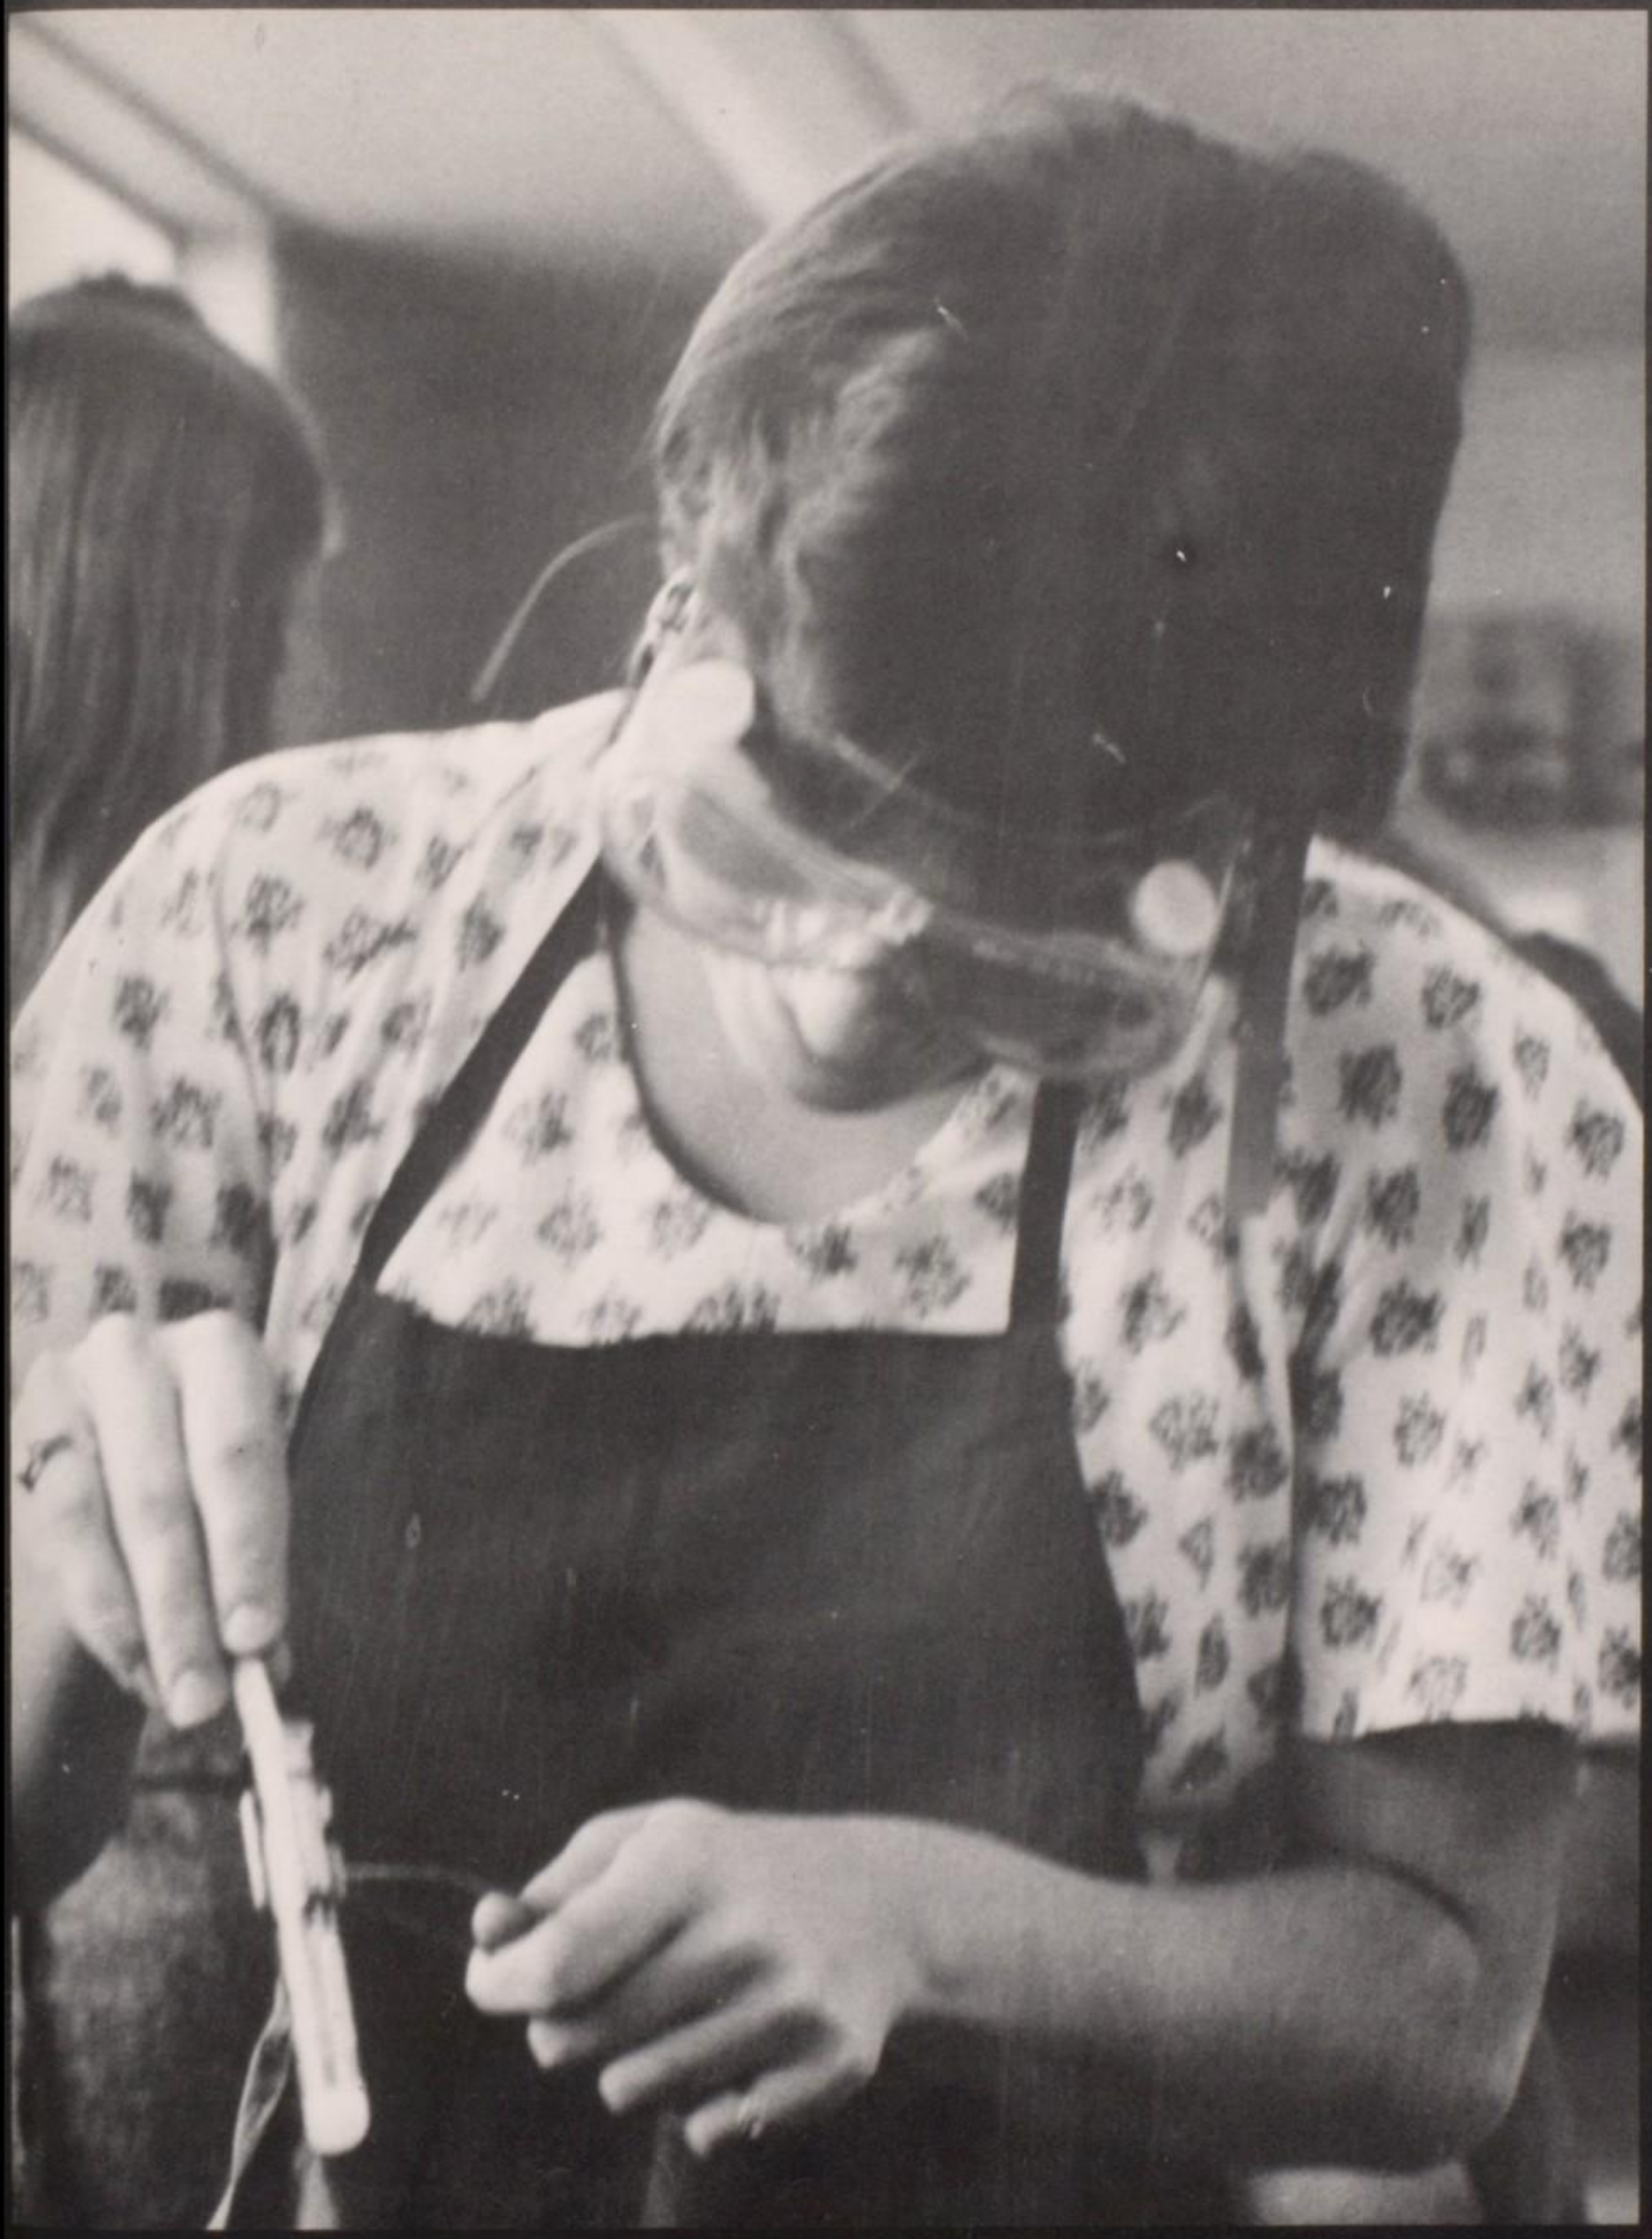
CLASSES



Seniors Walk From The Past And Run Towards The Future

The Senior Class Officers for 1974-75 were president, Wally Wakeman, vice-president, Bob Naughtrip, secretary, Sherry Sponseller, treasurer, Denise Hill, and historian, Debbie Parker. They worked hard to make the '74-'75 school year one worth remembering in the eyes of everyone, students and faculty alike.

"Year after year beheld the silent toil
that spread his lustrous coil;
Still as the spiral grew,
He left the past year's dwelling for the new,
Stole with soft step its shining archway through,
Built up its idle door,
Stretched in his last-found home, and knew the old no more."

From their Freshman year on, this Senior Class has had the pleasure of toiling through first year changes. Their first major setback came with the discovery that they would be the largest class to enter Hoover, therefore, allowing them to spend another year at the Junior High. Although they had many setbacks, they seemed to be able to close the door on some of these and come out ahead with the fact that they produced a good prom their Junior year, were able to help in the revision of the dress code, and much more. This though, is not the end. In order to achieve more in life they will all take their individual roads into the future. They'll leave the past for the new. Being strengthened by their past mistakes and accomplishments, they'll achieve and trace it all back to the individualism and togetherness they learned to cope with at good old Hoover High.

True personalities surfaced as seniors Jean Chivers, exchange student Carina Nilsson, Mary Garcia, Missy Ingold, and Beth Bytheway added to the enlightened atmosphere of fun and togetherness.

Seniors Enjoy Musical, Fun, And Togetherness

Faces in the crowd are hard to place, but as you can see, last year's annual signing party was a success.

The sun brought out many people and this year's seniors, last year's juniors, were represented well. Memories of the past year and the fact that fall would bring them back as seniors dawned upon their faces.

DAVE CROSS

In between breaks and lunch, these senior print shop students were very productive. Learning to operate the heavy machinery was only one of the many skills they mastered. Representing their print shop class are the following students: Jim Fleming, Todd Michel, John Jamison, and Kandi Duplain.

Eating, which seems to be the biggest highlight of the day, is seen by these strong, growing boys at lunch.

Although this day is a terribly slow and boring one, lunch trays are piled high, once or twice, and jaws are usually going at it rapidly. The lunch must not be the best, as one can see by the expressions on their faces.

Contemplating a serious problem is senior Connie Danner. With head in one hand, a Turabian manual in the other, and a determined effort, the speeches, reports, and compositions of English IV were a little bit easier to understand and conquer. Anything can be done when a mind and a Turabian work together.

What a performance! If there was one outstanding feature at pep rallies and games, it was the drums. Standing erect are Joe Kolp, Linda Greisheimer, Phil Powell, and Al Martinsen who touched the audience with their moving performance as they beat their drums with a strong, proud, and steady rhythm.

Head majorette, Sharie Hirt was a weekly highlight every Friday. She not only represented the band well, but the audience felt proud as she led the band on to the field. With her head held high, she always stood in the foreground, a silhouette during their performance, which was rich with talent and warmth.

A fall day and warm weather is all that was needed to arouse enthusiasm in the Senior Women. A love of football, on or aside from Friday night, brought Colleen Andring, Madge Rodemeyer, and the rest out for fun.

Doug Myers is musically inclined as is shown by his participation in outside activities. For Doug, comfortable attire, a cool breeze, and leisure surroundings make the best kind of performance.

Football Is A Big Fall Attraction For Everyone

These guys represented the Athletic Department of the Class of '75. During football season they were the leaders of the pack and through leadership and unequalled dedication they proved very proficient on and off the field. Not usually this glum-looking, they could be very comical in and out of the classroom.

Heating the test tube was only the beginning. Then there were steps to follow and the production of what was supposed to be a product. Following the technique very carefully and still hands are both essential.

With inhibited bravery Marlene Gross raises those still hands and ganders into the test tube before taking the long awaited sniff. The process wasn't too long and hopefully, what is supposed to happen — will.

Well, not too successful. The smell was so awful Marlene had to take a breath of fresh air before relighting her bunsen burner, filling her test tube, and beginning again. Maybe this time it'll be done right.

Always something. One week incognito, the next natural, and still one week they weren't even there.

Sometimes serious, sometimes funny, but always trying to "psych" them up were Jim Dragomire, Maurice Jackson and Pat Wrigley. Their jokes, antics, and piano playing were added extras of each pep rally.

They're taking a break from the regular routine of schoolwork. Why can't school always be this carefree?

One of the most spirited people in Hoover this year was Sherry Sponseller. She represented us "Vikings" well and gave the appearance of all out enthusiasm during games and pep rallies. Actually, all the time.

Energetic Seniors Encounter Few Obstacles

Enjoying the enthusiasm of their last Homecoming dress up day are Nancy Petros and Jenny Spencer. For Nancy, trying to pin on Jenny's mum was a little difficult, but when the pillow was removed things began to thin out. The mum got pinned and smiles continued to glow as the memories of one last Homecoming was enjoyed.

Earphones and typewriters served as the tools that Cathy Lewis used in Senior Secretarial. Steady rhythm and real concentration made the job easier. It also added better grades and smiling satisfaction.

Not very intent on, yet half listening to Brad Haidet's problem, was Gary Cathey. It seems like researching was all the seniors did this year, proving that there is still plenty to learn if only we're willing to look.

The dream of success and desire for victory fill Hoover swimmer, Doug Speicher, as he leaves the school for a meet. Paula Owens watches with the hope that her fellow classmate will achieve his goal.

Concentrating on what note comes next and which finger pushes which key is senior Cindy Wagner. The rose on her lapel indicates that it's her last home football game performance and the end of marching too.

Juniors Combine Their Efforts

The Junior class officers as usual are caught "just hanging around." The members are as follows: Tom Caniford, president; Linda Meister, vice-president; Pam Mathie, secretary; Karen Hill, treasurer; and Pam Braden, historian. Together they combined their efforts in order to better the high school.

"It's web of living gauze no more unfurl;
Wrecked is the ship of pearl!
And every chambered cell,
Where it's dim dreaming life was wont to dwell
As the frail tenant shaped his growing shell,
Before thee lies revealed —
Its irised ceiling rent, its sunless crypt unsealed!"

Just like the stanza says, your Junior year is one of not knowing where you stand. The year between the vigor of being a Sophomore, and the year before the splendor of being a Senior. At times it may seem like we are dead, that we don't have anywhere to go, no ambitions, no ideas for the future. Yet, slowly, we find those ambitions in order to better ourselves. We will begin to realize where we want to head in life and what direction we will take to get there.

Students Find Time For Some Rather Odd Activities

Librarian aide, Pam Smith, takes a break from her busy but monotonous schedule to do a little research of her own. Library work is time consuming and boring, yet it allows Pam time for her extra homework seventh period. Working with the librarians can be quite a unique and rewarding experience.

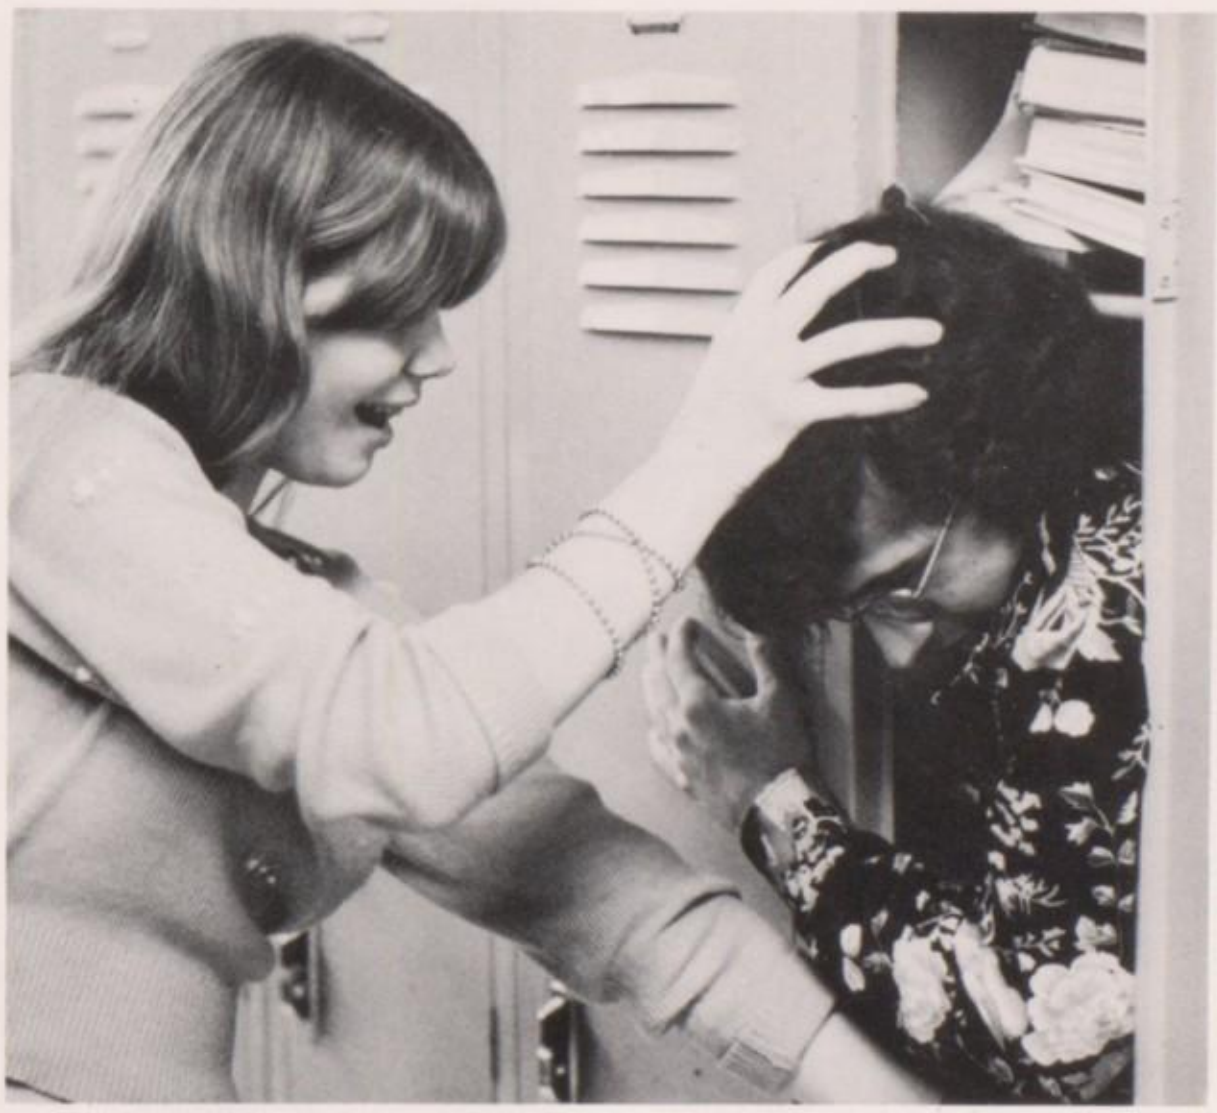
Amy Evans displays her acrobatic talent by climbing up on top of the lockers to get the "basic" view of things below. She smiles prettily as the photographer snaps her picture with expertise.



This is what results from minor disagreements in the halls. Obviously, George Vukovich has in some way insulted Ann Lauritzen and she decided that he would be better off in a locker where he couldn't bother her.

Bob Farber, Charlie Grandjean, and Chuck Einsig take time out from a thrilling, tedious, yet time-consuming experiment in order to explain the procedures of their daily projects to the photographer. During the discussion a brilliant yet conservative idea comes to the wondrous mind of Bob Farber.

The Junior class was, as was each class, well represented in the area of "spirit." With signs flying high, smiling faces, and clenched hands, they watched, clapped, and cheered their classmates on to victory. Faithfully, they flocked to pep rally upon pep rally during the football season with high hopes.

Juniors Pam and Tam Morath, along with Jane Rinehart, get some assistance from Cindy Lintner during an art class. With smiling faces they indulge in group and individual projects which require skill and undivided attention. When using the proper technique and patience to the fullest, the end product will shine.

Dolores Garcia keeps a watchful eye on the director in order to fine her place and make sure all is in tip-top shape with her flute. Sue Andaloro and her partner will each take her own occasional glance, as does everyone, in order to make for a peaceable performance. All of this calls for intense concentration.

True dedication and loyalty to one's own chosen field of endeavor mean meeting bus rides on time. A truly dependable person, Russ Chambers, boards the bus on time as he and his teammates head out for the action.

Junior Patty Phillips diligently concentrates on hitting just the right notes to perfect her musical ability. She gave her best part to contribute to the well-rounded, well-sounding Hoover High Band.

Sophomore Class Officers Think About Change And

Representing the Sophomores are class officers Carol Wakeman, secretary; Marybeth Moore, treasurer; Matt Korosi, vice-president; Robin Roush, president; and Jim Halley, historian. The officers are working hard this year to make it the best Sophomore class so far. Their efforts show much dedication.

"This is the ship of pearl, which, poets
feign,
Sails the unshadowed main —
The venturous bark that flings
On the sweet summer wind its purpled wings
In gulfs enchanted, where the Siren sings,
Where the cold sea-maids rise to sun their streaming hair."

The Sophomore class this year has embarked on a journey so many have taken before them. Yet new adventures await them as they round the next bend on the road to a more meaningful life. They will learn more ideas, meet new challenges, and face new problems. The journey is far from easy, but, with open minds and enthusiasm, it will become a rewarding experience. They are beginning this journey by becoming involved in clubs, sports, and much more.

Sophomores Sue Lukens and Patty Plasket try to concentrate on study sheets in biology lab. These fourth period students are not quite sure if they enjoy having a subject like biology lab before lunch.

Even though the cafeteria becomes crowded with people, books, and lunches, everyone manages to find a seat with some friends. Melissa Guthridge enjoys her lunch after some hard morning classes.

During that long awaited time of day, lunch, Bill Jolliffe and Paul Violand talk with some friends. After the lunch period, they can begin the afternoon with renewed vigor, alert minds, and refreshed spirits.

This year has been unusual and instructive. I had never realized the tension, hassles, and work involved in one book, but I found out about them all too soon. When deadlines approached, I wished that I could blink my eyes and everything would be over. I managed to survive, though, and I became totally familiar with the inside of room 121.

I was fortunate to have under me, some people who were completely dependable. These people made by job a little easier, and they helped to make this book one of the best yearbooks produced (I'm only slightly biased when I say that).

I would like to take this opportunity to thank those people who loaned us their old annuals; Kevin Cline who provided us with Homecoming pictures; Dave King who served as messenger boy from Troup & Pluto; Mike Nolan our representative from Taylor Publishing (who answered our dumb questions); and Mrs. Hollinger, our advisor. Others deserving of some acknowledgement are: Troup & Pluto and Steve Robinson; Mrs. Snyder who helped chaperone the staff at Moorehead; and Mr. Isue who allowed us to have an assembly, gave us his permission to get out of classes for picture taking, and helped in other situations. I am extremely grateful for the support of our patrons and advertisers, and I also appreciated the cooperation and understanding of faculty, students, staff, parents and administration.

I am not going to bother to thank every member of the staff personally, but I am sure that the people who labored over quad-paks, cameras, layouts, copy, captions, and cropping, and advertising know that this book would never be here without their hard work. Thank you, everyone!

Monica Harrison,
Editor

Through the deep caves of thought I hear a voice that sings . . .

In our minds we hear the voices of all the different people who have affected us.

We also remember all the important events of our lives.

Build thee more stately mansions, O my soul, as the swift seasons roll! Leave thy low vaulted past! Let each new temple nobler than the last, shut thee from heaven with a dome more vast . . .

Our souls must expand and be open to newness and the vast experiences that reach out before us. Our dreams must grow toward infinity and be realized in our actions.

Till thou at length art free, leaving thine outgrown shell
by life's unresting sea!

As all our dreams work out and our goals are reached, we will be reawakened. It will be a revival of new hopes and more dreams.
